British-U.S. Polaris Talks Make Big Strides to Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy's Polaris boss said today British-U.S. negotiators have made enormous strides in working out arrangements for creating a British missile firing submarine force.

The talks should be wrapped up in about a week or 10 days, Rear Adm. Ignatius J. Galantin told The Associated Press.

Galantin, a principal figure in the talks, disclosed that British naval experts had started out with the idea that they could save money by building smaller subs with fewer missiles than the American version.

But, Galantin said, "we were able to point out to the British" that they could save only about 5 per cent of the cost by limiting their submarines to eight Polaris missiles rather than 16.

This is because certain vital—and very expensive—fire control, navigation and other special equipment would have to be mounted in the submarines regardless of the number of missiles.

The British will start with four submarines, Galantin said, and "we don't know whether they will go beyond four or not."

The technical talks now are revolving around the question of whether the British will use American training, test and other facilities or whether they will provide their own.

The Polaris chief said "studies will show that the most economical" course would be for the British to contract with the United States to train crews and to use missile firing ranges like that off Cape Canaveral, Fla.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said last month that if Britain decides to buy the most advanced Polaris missile—a 2,880-mile range weapon—for its subs it will pay an additional 5 per cent of the production price as a share of development costs.

However, he said that Britain would be able to buy the existing shorter range Polaris missiles at production prices without any contribution to the $2 billion already spent by the United States in research and development.

The negotiations have been moving ahead again: a background of growing political controversy in Britain over the question of building a costly fleet of Polaris subs to operate under the Union Jack.

It has been estimated four submarines would cost the British $700 million.

Disguised Detective Foils Purse Snatcher

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A would-be purse snatcher, possibly wounded, escaped from police Wednesday night after he "jumped" a detective disguised as a woman.

Detective George Kegg fired four times at the man who, realizing his mistake, fled shouting: "You ain't no woman."

Kegg was one of four detectives who donned women's clothing and makeup Wednesday night in an effort to catch a man who has terrorized women in the area since the first of the year.

They fall into these classifications:

1. Education.

The main request here was that Congress authorize a program to provide federal know-how and money to push desegregation in public schools in communities which need and seek financial help.

Ohio House OKs College Regents Plan

Battle Is Resolved On Almost Purely Party Line Vote

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House has approved creation of a board of regents to draft a higher-education plan for the state and control operations of the six state universities.

The battle, resolved on almost a purely party line vote, occupied about two hours Wednesday. Republicans favored the bill backed by the GOP Rhodes administration, and Democrats, with the exception of Rep. Charles Mooney of Cleveland, opposed it. The House sent the measure to the Senate by an 88-44 vote.

Meanwhile, the Senate was completing Ohio's ratification of a U.S. constitutional amendment to outlaw poll taxes in connection with presidential and congressional elections. The Senate vote was unanimous. Ohio thus becomes the 10th state to ratify the amendment.

Key bills received by the House would:

- Abolish the Department of Highway Safety created by the legislature a decade ago.

Appropriate $350,000 to repair the leaky roof of the Statehouse rotunda and make other repairs at the State Capitol.

House Education Chairman Robert Longworth, R-Carroll, said the bill setting up the board of regents comes at a time when potential applications for college admissions are building up to a peak. He predicted that by 1970 some 340,000 prospective college students will be clamoring at the gates.

Poppa Proud Until He Gets Son's Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The parents of George Basle were puzzled but proud that somehow he had learned to dial the Weather Bureau for the latest forecasts.

"We thought it was real cute and smart," said his mother Mrs. George A. Basle. "It was a Sunday he first did it. George was playing so bad for it to snow so he could play in it, and he went over to the phone and dialed the weather all by himself. He thought he was real big."

"My husband was proud, very proud. He was walking around with his chest out. Only 6, and already he can dial the weather. We were amazed he could get it so rapidly all the time, even when the weather was bad."

That first Sunday, George called the weather nine times. By Feb. 10 he had called the weather 42 times. Then the Basles received their telephone bill. Surprise, it came to $33 for toll calls. Why?

George's calls all had been to the Weather Bureau in New York City.

Instead of dialing 9361212 for the recorded Washington weather forecast he had, in each of the 42 calls, prefaced the number with 212, the New York City area code for distance dialing.

But everything turned out good for poppa and George. The telephone company canceled the charges after he explained what had happened.

Peking - Moscow Meeting Expected To Study Painful Split in Red Front

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Premier Khrushchev's latest pronouncements in the interminable dialogue with Red China may mean a Peking-Moscow meeting to explore the painful split in the world Communist front.

This does not mean the rift is closing but rather that Khrushchev is anxious to remove the war of words from public view and take it backstage.

In his attempt to accomplish this, Khrushchev has applied the soft answer to turn away Red Chinese wrath.

Only hours after Peking had lashed him violently demanding an apology for his attitude in the quarrel over world communism should be advanced, Khrushchev replied with notable mildness.

He reminded the Red Chinese—and those who side with Peking—that only Moscow is strong enough to go to their aid should they be in danger. He said he would be willing to go to the aid of any Communist country attacked by "the imperialists." But he thoughtfully singled out by name Cuba, Red China, North Viet Nam, North Korea and East Germany.

The Communist parties of North Viet Nam and North Korea side with Peking in the quarrel. They support the Red Chinese contention that Khrushchev fears paper tigers and thus sacrifices opportunities for communism to advance swiftly, particularly in the backward areas of Latin America, Asia, Africa and the Middle East.

East Germany's Communist leadership has been nagging Khrushchev on the issue of West Berlin, which he virtually promised four years ago to deliver to them. And Cuba, of course, was included in this blanket pledge of Soviet protection for a specific purpose.

The Red Chinese claim Khrushchev showed the white feather last October by agreeing to withdraw Soviet missiles from Cuba after the Kennedy blockade showdown.

Patently Khrushchev repeated in his speech to a Kremlin election rally Wednesday that he did what he did to "arrest the oncoming avalanche of thermonuclear war." He said he had definitely not "left heroic Cuba at the mercy of the big sharks of American imperialism." He assured Cuba of Soviet support in any "hour of need."

Still speaking softly, Khrushchev cautioned his critics in the Red world that communism's enemies are using and exaggerating their quarrel. He expressed confidence that the Communist parties would find a way to patch up their differences.

Peking belligerently says it is ready for a private meeting to talk things over. Peking wants a backdown from Khrushchev, an admission that he has been wrong and has been an arrogant "revisionist" all along. The Communist Chinese will not get any such thing.

Mao Tze-tung has had a meeting with the Soviet ambassador in Peking. Sitting in on the meeting were other high-ranking Chinese Reds, including Wu Hsiuchuan, the Central Committee member who was subjected to boos and catcalls in the East Berlin meeting of world Communists in January.

4 More Ships Now Headed For Island

U.S. Diplomat Denies Russia Says It Plans To Keep Garrison

WASHINGTON (AP)—One Soviet ship carrying a small number of troops has left Cuba under the new Soviet promise to pull several thousand out of Cuba by March 15.

Reporting this today, officials said four other ships are known to be on the way to Cuba. These have a potential capacity to haul away eight or nine thousand Soviet soldiers.

Presumably the one ship known to have sailed is the luxury liner Baltika, reported Feb. 21 to have set out with a then undetermined number aboard.

Times news service report that the Russians had notified the United States that a force would be left on the island, Asst. Secretary of State Robert Manning said:

"We have received no such notification. Nor have we drawn any such inference from any communication or conversation with them."

The Times story said the notice from Moscow was interpreted in Washington as meaning a pull-out of up to 7,000 men, leaving about 10,000.

Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin told Secretary of State Dean Rusk on Feb. 18 that the Russians would remove several thousand troops from Cuba by March 15. Shortly afterward Central Intelligence Agency Director John A. McCone told a congressional committee that four ships were en route to Cuba. Officials then understood substantial troop removals would begin early this week. The removals did not occur in any substantial numbers.

WASHINGTON (AP)—One Soviet ship carrying a small number of troops has left Cuba under the new Soviet promise to pull several thousand out of Cuba by March 15.

Reporting this today, officials said four other ships are known to be on the way to Cuba. These have a potential capacity to haul away eight or nine thousand Soviet soldiers.

Presumably the one ship known to have sailed is the luxury liner Baltika, reported Feb. 21 to have set out with a then undetermined number aboard.

Times news service report that the Russians had notified the United States that a force would be left on the island, Asst. Secretary of State Robert Manning said: "We have received no such notification. Nor have we drawn any such inference from any communication or conversation with them."

The Times story said the notice from Moscow was interpreted in Washington as meaning a pull-out of up to 7,000 men, leaving about 10,000.

Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin told Secretary of State Dean Rusk on Feb. 18 that the Russians would remove several thousand troops from Cuba by March 15. Shortly afterward Central Intelligence Agency Director John A. McCone told a congressional committee that four ships were en route to Cuba. Officials then understood substantial troop removals would begin early this week. The removals did not occur in any substantial numbers.

Lausche Seeks Passport Ban On Red Aides

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, proposed legislation today to deny passports to Communist supporters.

Lausche said that because the law is unclear "Communist subversives or agitators may freely move back and forth across our borders."

In his speech prepared for delivery in the Senate, Lausche said the Supreme Court threw the passport situation into turmoil in 1958 when it held the State Department could not, in the absence of expressed legal authority withhold a passport on the ground that an applicant refused to sign a non-Communist oath.

The decision, he said, indicated a denial could be made only if the applicant is not a citizen, is a member of a Communist organization under a final order to register by the Subversive Activities Control Board or is engaging in criminal conduct.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower proposed legislation to give the State Department complete discretion to issue or withhold passports from Communists or Communist sympathizers said Lausche. He added:

"President Eisenhower stated at that time that every day that passed without the legislation he proposed left the country in great peril."

Fur-Coated Burglar Put in Dog Pound

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Ed Edgar heard a noise at his front entrance Wednesday night and found a masked burglar in a fur coat opening his storm door.

Officers watched in amazement as the burglar—a raccoon—mounted a four-inch ledge under a picture window pressed the doorbell with a paw and pulled on the door handle.

Patrolman Thomas Jones said the 'coon tried a break-in earlier at a house in the next block. The householder reported his bell rang and his front door slammed repeatedly but he couldn't find anyone at the door.

Officers took the 'coon to the dog pound.

Civil Rights Plan Offered

JFK Gives Congress Reinforced Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy appealed to a divided Congress today to reinforce the Negro's right to vote and to attend desegregated schools in a nation where he said "the cruel disease of discrimination still exists nearly everywhere."

For the first time, in a special message, Kennedy outlined a specific civil rights program to Congress. In addition to legislation directed at the ballot and the school house, he asked for an extension of the life of the Civil Rights Commission, with expanded duties.

"The program outlined in this message," Kennedy said, "should not provide the occasion for sectional bitterness."

Yet White House officials told reporters they recognize the built-in possibilities of a filibuster by Southerners in a Senate which has just rejected a bid to camp down on filibustering. They said, though, that the program was tailored in realistic style that it ought to be passed, and there is a good chance it will.

In the century since Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation, the President's message said, slavery has vanished but progress for the Negro has been blocked and delayed too often.

Kennedy credited his administration with a sparkling two-year record on civil rights. But he said a broad national effort still is needed, an effort embracing state and local governments, private citizens and organizations, and the congressional machinery.

His requests for legislation are expected to be submitted within 10 days or so as three separate bills.

They fall into these classifications:

1. Education.

The main request here was that Congress authorize a program to provide federal know-how and money to push desegregation in public schools in communities which need and seek financial help.

'Remarkable Woman' Saved from Well Cavein

SANGER, Calif. (AP)—A rancher's wife who held out tenaciously for 32 grueling hours while trapped deep in waters of a caved-in well, was praised today by her rescuer as "a remarkable woman."

"After we got her out," said constable Hurshel Pigg, "I asked her if she had worried any. She's a remarkable woman. She told me her husband (away buying poultry) would be home in one more day and she could have held out till then."

Mrs. Arthur Hiscok, 45, left her house Tuesday morning to turn off the motor to a pump before going to work at a seed company.

Earth over a well she didn't know was there collapsed, plunging her into cold water. A ledge was formed by the cavein. She dug her arms into it and held on. She looked up. The well's rim was 20 feet above her.

"My deputy, Val Valles and I, drove out the next day when the sheriff's office reported she was still missing," Pigg said.

"Her car was in the yard. Three Siamese cats were raising a ruckus because they were hungry. I heard what sounded like a sheep bleating. When I got out to a shed, I realized it was a woman whose voice was hoarse from calling."

"When I found her, I grabbed a piece of quarter-inch cable, attached a board to it and lowered it so she could rest her arms. Then we found a rope and had her tie it around her body under her arms, so if she lost consciousness she wouldn't drown."

"Then we called the Mid-Valley Forestry Department and they rushed two men with ladders. We put one across the hole, hooked a second ladder to it and let it down in the well. She climbed out by herself."

"A very remarkable woman," Mrs. Hiscok, treated for exposure at a hospital, was reported in good condition today.

Once Around Roundtown

THE BASEMENT of City Hall today sounded like the interior of a watch and clock repair shop. . .

Back on duty after a bout with illness was Nolan Dunkle, local parking meter patrolman. . . He has been assigned by Chief Robert Temple to repair a heavy quantity of meters. . .

Chief Temple said the repair project will fall in line with a required light duty period for Dunkle, plus provide a much-needed service in the way of fixing up some of the city's well-worn meters. . .

Dunkle already has repaired about 25 of the timing devices. . . Many more are slated to follow. . . The chief said he hopes the project will be least temporarily ward off the necessity of purchasing new meters.

MOTOR VEHICLE tags for 1963 go on sale tomorrow at deputy registrar's posts throughout the state. . .

The '63 tags are white letters and numbers on a dark blue background. New tags must be displayed midnight March 31.

The Circleville post is located in the basement of the courthouse.

MANY people in the downtown area are beginning to wonder what "new business" is going to open at the former location of the Dairy Bar, S. Court St. . . The windows of the restaurant have been glazed and a sign reads "donuts 20 cents per dozen."

Many have noticed the bright colors of the interior, orange brown, purple and black. . . Actually, the "new business" is to be a display room for Beavers Studio, adjoining the newly decorated store. . .

Also scheduled to open soon on W. Main will be a new men's clothing store.

Bradds Makes All-America

NEW YORK (AP)—Art Heyman of Duke, Ron Bonham of Cincinnati and Jerry Harkness of Chicago Loyola, whose exploits helped their teams to national ranking, top the 1963 college basketball All-America announced today by The Associated Press.

Rounding out the first team are Gary Bradds of Ohio State and Barry Kramer of New York University. Heyman and Harkness are seniors, Bonham, Bradds and Kramer juniors.

Two seniors, Rod Thorn of West Virginia and Tom Thacker of Cincinnati, two juniors, Cotton Nash of Kentucky and Walt Hazzard of UCLA, and Princeton's star sophomore, Bill Bradley, make up a second team.

The third team is comprised of Nick Werkman, Seton Hall junior, and four seniors, Tony Yates of Cincinnati, Bill Green of Colorado State University, Eddie Miles of Seattle and Jimmy Rayl of Indiana.

Will Lightning Strike Gas Station Third Time?

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Never mind worry about lightning striking twice—Carl Gabbard was worried about the third time at his gasoline station in nearby Bethany.

Tuesday, a parked wrecker truck coasted down an incline and smashed one of his fuel pumps, starting a minor fire. He had a new pump put in later that day.

Wednesday, however, a parked soft drink truck eased down the same incline and demolished the brand new pump.

Alcatraz Guest List Is Reduced to 64

ALCATRAZ, Calif. (AP)—"The Rock" was down to 64 convicts today.

Only a year ago, the island prison near San Francisco's Golden Gate housed 260. In its time, it has held some of the nation's toughest cons—Al Capone, Alvin (Creepy) Karpis and Basil (The Owl) Banghart.

Now its being phased out. Salt air, wind and time are wearing away Alcatraz, a prison of one sort or another since 1858. It's too costly to restore.

Among 38 cons moved off the rock Tuesday was Mickey Cohen, Los Angeles racketeer doing time for income tax evasion. They sent him to Atlanta.

The prison is expected to be empty by July 1.

Absences Vary In Different County Areas

School absences due to illness in Circleville schools today showed a steady decline, although the Ashville and Walnut Twp. areas reported a sharp increase.

Ed Irwin, principal of Ashville Elementary School, listed a total of 151 students and six teachers "downed by a number of illnesses." Irwin said the majority of absences were attributed to the flu although many are chicken pox, measles and mumps cases.

Teays Valley High School today listed about nine per cent of the student body on its absentee report. At Walnut Twp. 65 students and five teachers were missing from classes.

Circleville schools are improving gradually. Today's absentee count was 430 students and 11 teachers compared to yesterday's records of 468 pupils and 16 instructors.

All schools in both the city and county have remained open although at one time last week, the list of substitute teachers was exhausted. This proposed a threat to operation of some schools.

Findlay Sacks Collegian for 'Newsletter'

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — The Administrative Council of Findlay College today dismissed 26-year-old John Krouse, a freshman whose campus newsletter brought down the wrath of both the student government association and college officials.

Krouse, of North Baltimore 12 miles north of Findlay, had been publishing a newsletter campaigning of college administrative policies and decisions as well as living conditions on the campus.

He had been ordered to appear before the student court to answer charges that he failed to abide by the proper channels provided to all members of the Student Government Association of which he was a member.

When he failed to appear, the court recommended that he be fined $50 and that his case be referred to the Administrative Council.

Krouse issued a statement after hearing of his dismissal, saying he intends to file suit against the college for reinstatement "to preserve my interests as a student and my rights as a citizen."

Red Cross Chapter Discusses Water Safety, Welfare Projects

Participation in a water safety instructors training course and the formation of a community service council relative to local welfare coordination were points of business discussed when board members of the Pickaway County Chapter American Red Cross met last night at the local headquarters.

The water safety course will be conducted by the Franklin County Red Cross Chapter. Representatives from this area have been invited to participate.

Two schools in two different Columbus locations are scheduled this year. Local persons interested in taking part are requested to contact the local headquarters prior to Mar. 15.

A guest at last night's meeting was Dr. Manuel Sanguly, the city's newest physician and son-in-law of Dr. Robert Smith, chairman of the Pickaway Board. Dr. Sanguly has expressed interest in the swimming and water safety program here.

MRS. WALTER HEINE volunteered to work on a project devoted to improving coordination between various agencies concerning welfare activities here. An effort will be made to fix responsibilities of clubs and organizations that strive to better welfare work here.

In other business, the Chapter approved the appointment of Marshall Douthett, local attorney, as a member of the board. His name was submitted to Dr. Smith.

Plans were initiated to name a budget committee to work on appropriations that will be requested from the Community Fund this year. The request is due in April.

Mrs. G. A. Wyllie was present to present an outline report on activities of the local Gray Ladies organization. She said by next week members will have completed a 14-hour instruction course.

Dr. Smith announced a Regional Blood Program meeting scheduled all day Mar. 6 at the Grandview Inn in Columbus. A film on donor recruitment will be shown.

Mrs. Roloff Wolford, Chapter executive secretary, announced her home service report for the month. Included were: required emergency leaves, 2; assistance with hardship transfers, 1; counseling cases, 10; one grant for $25; one loan for $25; and six miscellaneous cases.

Stock Market Stays Lower

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market shaved some early losses early this afternoon but remained lower.

Declines among key issues generally were fractional and a few small gains appeared on the tape. Trading was fairly active but had slowed from its opening pace.

Brokers said investors appeared to want to play it cautious for a while and take some profits in view of uncertainties over the Kennedy tax program and international affairs.

Motors, rubbers, aircrafts chemicals and rails eased. Steels and tobaccos were mixed. The Associated Press average of 30 stocks was off .7 at 253.9 with industrials off 1.3, rails up .1 and utilities off .4.

4 More Ships

here that the four ships now enroute are supposed to remove the troops necessary to make good on Moscow's promise.

Officials said that since the number of troops and military technicians in Cuba now is around 17,000, the removal of several thousand obviously would not provide for withdrawal of the entire force under the present Moscow commitment. But they said the United States expects progressive reduction of the force.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has said a continued Soviet military presence in Cuba is not acceptable to the United States. Privately officials say this country's aim is to obtain complete withdrawal of Soviet military forces from Cuba.

The Times Washington dispatch by Tad Szulc said:

"...Moscow understands the desire of the Kennedy administration to see as many troops as possible removed. But, according to Soviet diplomats, Moscow also expects the U.S. to understand that, at least for the time being, it is impossible to think about evacuating the entire Soviet military establishment from the island."

"The analysis within the administration is that presence of Soviet troops in Cuba—whether 10,000 or 17,000—is not likely to enhance victory the Communist efforts to spread unrest throughout Latin America."

"The belief was that such revolutionary unrest was furthered to a much larger degree by the political activities of Cuban sympathizers in Latin America—including those from the student cadres trained in Cuba—and by the continuing social, economic and political inadequacies in the hemisphere republics."

Ants Are Served As School Lunch

KETTERING, Ohio (AP)—The menu for "lunch" at Fairmont High School Wednesday read: Exotic foods: Grasshoppers, Ants, Caterpillars.

And nobody complained. It was all part of a lesson in biology. Milburn Hinds, a science teacher, suggested that his biology students sample some of the insects they had been studying that are exotic foods in some parts of the world.

So the students prepared their own meal. For example, they dipped ants in chocolate.

There were no complaints. But one student, John De Haven, ate one caterpillar, grimaced and remarked: "One is enough."

75-Year-Old Takes Speedy 51-Mile Hike

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Walter L. Lane of La Grande, Ore., has celebrated his 75th birthday by walking 51 miles in 16 hours, 45 minutes. Lane hiked to the eastern Oregon community of North Powder, had lunch there, then walked back to La Grande. He had set a goal of 18 hours for the trek. How did he feel at the finish? "Just fine," Lane said.

Fresh Frigid Blast Coming

Michigan Mercury Drops below Zero

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Another mass of arctic air, fanned by northerly winds, spread into the northern Midwest today.

But temperatures appeared moderating in much of the eastern third of the nation after Wednesday's severe cold from Maine to northern Florida. Readings were 15 to 25 degrees higher from the lower Mississippi Valley northward through Tennessee and the Ohio Valley into the middle and northern Atlantic region.

It was still chilly in the Southeast but temperatures were much higher than 24 hours earlier in most areas. The cold air dipped southward into northern Florida. Readings were mostly in the 30 or upper 20s including 28 in Tallahassee, Fla.

As the fresh batch of frigid cold moved across the Canadian border into the northern Midwest the mercury dropped below zero in many areas. It was -15 in Pellston, Mich.; -9 in Marquette, Mich.; -8 in International Falls, Minn., and -7 in Eau Claire, Wis.

The cold air was expected to cover most of the north central region and northern sections of the Ohio Valley by tonight and Friday morning.

In New England, the only sub-zero cold readings were in northern Maine, including -6 in Millinocket and -3 in Caribou.

A belt of light snow extended from Lower Michigan eastward through western Pennsylvania and western New York. Amounts of three inches in a six-hour period were reported in Cleveland and Akron, Ohio. Another narrow band of light snow dampened areas from western Nebraska into western Illinois. Showers sprinkled the eastern Rockies.

In the early days of the United States most of the federal internal revenue came from customs duties and the sale of public lands.

Doomed Man Wins 50-Year Freedom Fight

NAGOYA, Japan (AP)—Ishimatsu Yoshida won a 50-year battle today to clear himself of a murder conviction. The 83-year-old Japanese said he could now die in peace.

A three-man higher court in Nagoya, central Japan, acquitted the feeble old man of a 1913 murder for which he was sentenced to death. His sentence was commuted to life imprisonment and he served 21 years.

Barely able to walk, Yoshida shuffled into court supported by two attendants. He had told his lawyers that he would stand up and shout "Banzai" (long live) if acquitted. But when the verdict came, all he could do was nod his head.

Yoshida was convicted of murdering a silk merchant in Nagoya and robbing him of the equivalent of 50 cents. A 32-year-old farmer at the time, Yoshida was convicted on the evidence of two men who said they were his accomplices.

Released from prison on an amnesty, Yoshida tracked down one of the pair who had testified against him and got from him a written apology saying he had lied in his testimony.

Beginning in 1935, Yoshida petitioned five times for a retrial. The authorities invariably rejected his petition.

His persistence finally won the attention of the Japan Civil Liberties Union and the bar association. Their support got the old man the retrial.

Presiding Judge Toichi Kobazashi, in reversing the original sentence, agreed Yoshida had been convicted on perjured evidence. The court's ruling entitles him to between 200 and 400 yen a day for each day in prison after his conviction, or in his case a maximum of $8,750.

Minority leader A. G. Lancione, after a series of Democratic amendments was defeated, told the House: "The bill won't do what you sponsors hope it will do."

Opponents of the measure called it repressive. A Toledo Democrat, Rep. Marigene Vanquette, reminded the House that state university officials have been something less than enthusiastic about the regents bill.

The Senate Judiciary Committee recommended passage of a bill to ban municipal incorporations within three miles of a municipality. The proposal by Sen. Roy Gardner, R-Richland, originally proposed a five-mile limit affecting areas attempting to forestall municipal annexation.

The Senate Liquor Committee unanimously recommended passage of a House-approved bill which would prohibit consumption of 3.2 beer in motor vehicles. The measure is aimed at teenagers who are permitted to buy beer at 18.

The House Industry and Labor Committee completed formal hearings on seven bills dealing with unemployment compensation. Chairman William W. Milligan, R-Shelby, said a subcommittee will hash over the proposals.

Trouble Follows Fuss with Taxman

NEW YORK (AP)—Some people can get into trouble without trying too hard.

Take the case of Gus J. Martin, 63, in the Lexington Avenue office of the Internal Revenue Service Wednesday. He got into an argument with a tax collector about a refund. Apparently losing the argument, he stalked off leaving behind a yellow box about the size of a cigarette carton.

Martin was hustled back, the police bomb squad was called, the first four floors of the building were evacuated of about 1,000 persons and traffic was cleared around the block between 46th and 47th streets.

Police put a fluoroscope on the box.

Its contents were harmless.

Red Cross Chapter Discusses Water Safety, Welfare Projects

Participation in a water safety instructors training course and the formation of a community service council relative to local welfare coordination were points of business discussed when board members of the Pickaway County Chapter American Red Cross met last night at the local headquarters.

The water safety course will be conducted by the Franklin County Red Cross Chapter. Representatives from this area have been invited to participate.

Two schools in two different Columbus locations are scheduled this year. Local persons interested in taking part are requested to contact the local headquarters prior to Mar. 15.

A guest at last night's meeting was Dr. Manuel Sanguly, the city's newest physician and son-in-law of Dr. Robert Smith, chairman of the Pickaway Board. Dr. Sanguly has expressed interest in the swimming and water safety program here.

MRS. WALTER HEINE volunteered to work on a project devoted to improving coordination between various agencies concerning welfare activities here. An effort will be made to fix responsibilities of clubs and organizations that strive to better welfare work here.

In other business, the Chapter approved the appointment of Marshall Douthett, local attorney, as a member of the board. His name was submitted to Dr. Smith.

Plans were initiated to name a budget committee to work on appropriations that will be requested from the Community Fund this year. The request is due in April.

Mrs. G. A. Wyllie was present to present an outline report on activities of the local Gray Ladies organization. She said by next week members will have completed a 14-hour instruction course.

Dr. Smith announced a Regional Blood Program meeting scheduled all day Mar. 6 at the Grandview Inn in Columbus. A film on donor recruitment will be shown.

Mrs. Roloff Wolford, Chapter executive secretary, announced her home service report for the month. Included were: required emergency leaves, 2; assistance with hardship transfers, 1; counseling cases, 10; one grant for $25; one loan for $25; and six miscellaneous cases.

Stock Market Stays Lower

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market shaved some early losses early this afternoon but remained lower.

Declines among key issues generally were fractional and a few small gains appeared on the tape. Trading was fairly active but had slowed from its opening pace.

Brokers said investors appeared to want to play it cautious for a while and take some profits in view of uncertainties over the Kennedy tax program and international affairs.

Motors, rubbers, aircraft chemicals and rails eased. Steels and tobacco were mixed. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .7 at 253.9 with industrials off 1.3, rails up .1 and utilities off .4.

SALT CREEK
The finance committee announced plans for a second church party to be held Mar. 21, during the regular monthly meeting of Salt Creek PTO held at the school Tuesday evening. Mrs. Carl Justice presided in the absence of the president.

The program was presented by the third, fourth and fifth grades with Mrs. June Eveland, Miss Margaret Chilcote and Mrs. Charlotte West in charge. A playlet "We Are Americans" was given by the third grade with Steve Fischer as the narrator. A patriotic playlet, "We Stand For Washington" was given by the fourth grade. The fifth grade sang "What Do We Do in School" and completed the program with a choral reading, "The Wonderful Gift".

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by a committee whose members were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Spung, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Jones, Mr. and Mrs. James Hart, Mr. and Mrs. James Alcorn, Mr. and Mrs. George Macklin and Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Poling.

Blast of Jet Fatal to 9

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—A KC135 jet tanker taking off from Eielson Air Force Base exploded over a guard house at an entrance to the field Wednesday night, killing nine persons.

All seven aboard the plane were killed. The other two died when the explosion flattened the guard house and a nearby waiting room. A witness said that as the plane passed over the guard house, flames appeared and then it exploded.

The four-engine plane veered to the left and crashed about a quarter of a mile from the gate. It smashed into the Alaska Highway, which runs by the base to Fairbanks, 26 miles to the north.

On board the KC135, used to refuel Strategic Air Command bombers in flight, were the pilot, a copilot, a navigator and four technicians. The tanker was on a refueling mission.

4 More Ships

here that the four ships now en route are supposed to remove the troops necessary to make good on Moscow's promise.

Officials said that since the number of troops and military technicians in Cuba now is around 17,000, the removal of several thousand obviously would not provide for withdrawal of the entire force under the present Moscow commitment. But they said the United States expects progressive reduction of the force.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has said a continued Soviet military presence in Cuba is not acceptable to the United States. Privately officials say this country's aim is to obtain complete withdrawal of Soviet military forces from Cuba.

The Times Washington dispatch by Tad Szulc said:

"Moscow understands the desire of the Kennedy administration to see as many troops as possible removed. But, according to Soviet diplomats, Moscow also expects the U.S. to understand that, at least for the time being, it is impossible to think about evacuating the entire Soviet military establishment from the island."

"The analysis within the administration is that presence of Soviet troops in Cuba—whether 10,000 or 17,000—is not likely to enhance visibly the Communist efforts to spread unrest throughout Latin America."

"The belief was that such revolutionary unrest was furthered to a much larger degree by the political activities of Cuban sympathizers in Latin America—including those from the student cadres trained in Cuba—and by the continuing social, economic and political inadequacies in the hemisphere republics."

Ants Are Served As School Lunch

KETTERING, Ohio (AP)—The menu for "lunch" at Fairmont High School Wednesday read: Exotic foods: Grasshoppers, Ants, Caterpillars.

And nobody complained. It was all part of a lesson in biology. Milburn Hinds, a science teacher, suggested that his biology students sample some of the insects they had been studying that are exotic foods in some parts of the world.

So the students prepared their own meal. For example, they dipped ants in chocolate.

There were no complaints. But one student, John De Haven, ate one caterpillar, grimaced and remarked:

"One is enough."

75-Year-Old Takes Speedy 51-Mile Hike
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Walter L. Lane of La Grande, Ore., has celebrated his 75th birthday by walking 51 miles in 16 hours, 45 minutes. Lane hiked to the eastern Oregon community of North Powder, had lunch there, then walked back to La Grande. He had set a goal of 18 hours for the trek. How did he feel at the finish? "Just fine," Lane said.

Doomed Man Wins 50-Year Freedom Fight

NAGOYA, Japan (AP)—Ishimatsu Yoshida won a 50-year battle today to clear himself of a murder conviction. The 83-year-old Japanese said he could now die in peace.

A three-man higher court in Nagoya, central Japan, acquitted the feeble old man of a 1913 murder for which he was sentenced to death. His sentence was commuted to life imprisonment and he served 21 years.

Barely able to walk, Yoshida shuffled into court supported by two attendants. He had told his lawyers that he would stand up and shout "Banzai" (long live) if acquitted. But when the verdict came, all he could do was nod his head.

Yoshida was convicted of murdering a silk merchant in Nagoya and robbing him of the equivalent of 50 cents. A 32-year-old farmer at the time, Yoshida was convicted on the evidence of two men who said they were his accomplices.

Released from prison on an amnesty, Yoshida tracked down one of the pair who had testified against him and got from him a written apology saying he had lied in his testimony.

Beginning in 1935, Yoshida petitioned five times for a retrial. The authorities invariably rejected his petition.

His persistence finally won the attention of the Japan Civil Liberties Union and the bar association. Their support got the old man the retrial.

Presiding Judge Toichi Kobayashi, in reversing the original sentence, agreed Yoshida had been convicted on perjured evidence. The court's ruling entitles him to between 200 and 400 yen a day for each day in prison after his conviction, or in his case a maximum of $8,750.

of institutions of higher learning for admission.

Minority leader A. G. Lancione, after a series of Democratic amendments was defeated, told the House: "The bill won't do what you sponsors hope it will do."

Opponents of the measure called it repressive. A Toledo Democrat, Rep. Marigene Vafquette, reminded the House that state university officials have been something less than enthusiastic about the re-geants bill.

The Senate Judiciary Committee recommended passage of a bill to ban municipal incorporations within three miles of a municipality. The proposal by Sen. Roy Gardner, R-Richland, originally proposed a five-mile limit affecting areas attempting to forestall municipal annexation.

The Senate Liquor Committee unanimously recommended passage of a House-approved bill which would prohibit consumption of 3.2 beer in motor vehicles. The measure is aimed at teen-agers who are permitted to buy beer at 18.

The House Industry and Labor Committee completed formal hearings on seven bills dealing with unemployment compensation. Chairman William W. Milligan, R-Shelby, said a subcommittee will hash over the proposals.

Trouble Follows

Fuss with Taxman

NEW YORK (AP)—Some people can get into trouble without trying too hard.

Take the case of Gus J. Martin, 63, in the Lexington Avenue office of the Internal Revenue Service Wednesday. He got into an argument with a tax collector about a refund. Apparently losing the argument, he stalked off leaving behind a yellow box about the size of a cigarette carton.

Martin was hustled back, the police bomb squad was called, the first four floors of the building were evacuated of about 1,000 persons and traffic was cleared around the block between 46th and 47th streets.

Police put a fluoroscope on the box. Its contents were harmless.

Self-Service Applies To Till, Bandit Told

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—A bandit showed a pistol to clerk Lloyd A. Anderson Wednesday night and demanded the money in the liquor store's cash register. "Get it yourself," Anderson retorted. "This is a self-service store."

The holdup man helped himself.

Protein is offered in a host of attractive forms—both meat and Lenten non-meat—at the nation's supermarkets this weekend.

Beef and pork prices continue low or lower, with heavy late winter livestock marketing. There also are several poultry attractions.

Eggs took a drop in most markets, fresh and canned seafood items are plentiful and cottage cheese, other cheeses and dairy products in general are economy-priced.

Among beef offerings, roasts are strongly featured. A sampling of some price tags at a national chain includes rib roasts at 69 cents a pound, round roasts 85 and rump roasts 89.

Both cured and fresh pork items are economically priced.

Poultry features include turkey, in the Midwest especially; chicken fryers, particularly in the Southeast, and roasting chickens.

Fresh vegetable offerings include cabbage, radishes, tomatoes, celery, onions and potatoes. Iceberg lettuce has come down in price at the same time quality has risen.

Fruit buys continue to be bananas, apples, pears and canned cherries. Also, citrus prices are slipping downward, with oranges, lemons and grapefruit becoming more attractive.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Education Association has made public these education survey figures for Ohio.

Estimated school-age population, age 5-17, as of July 1, 1962—2,556,406 (preceded by California with 4,153,812 and by New York, Pennsylvania and Texas). The U.S. total is 46,382,261.

Percentage of change in population, age 5-17, 1950-1960—57.4 per cent (preceded by Alaska with 139.1 per cent and by Nevada, Florida, California, Arizona, Delaware, Maryland, Connecticut, New Jersey and Colorado). The U.S. average is 42.8 per cent.

Percentage of youth, age 14-17, enrolled in school in 1960—89.5 per cent (preceded by 18 states ranging from Oregon with 93.9 per cent to Kansas with 89.6 per cent). The U.S. average is 87.4 per cent.

Median number of school years completed by persons 25 years old and older, 1960 (median is the numerical middle, not the average; it means there are as many above the figure as there are below it)—10.9 (preceded by 22 states, ranging from Utah with 12.2 to New Hampshire with 10.9). The U.S. average is 10.6.

Percentage of total elementary and secondary school enrollment in public and non-public schools, 1959-1960—85.2 per cent public, 14.8 per cent non-public (preceded by 31 states ranging from North Carolina with 98.6 per cent public and 1.4 per cent non-public, to Maine with 85.3 per cent public and 14.7 per cent non-public). The U.S. averages 86.4 per cent public and 13.6 per cent non-public.

Percentage of Selective Service registrants failing the mental test 1961—13.5 per cent (preceded

by THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Protein is offered in a host of attractive forms—both meat and Lenten non-meat—at the nation's supermarkets this weekend.

Beef and pork prices continue low or lower, with heavy late winter livestock marketing. There also are several poultry attractions.

Eggs took a drop in most markets, fresh and canned seafood items are plentiful and cottage cheese, other cheeses and dairy products in general are economy-priced.

Among beef offerings, roasts are strongly featured. A sampling of some price tags at a national chain includes rib roasts at 69 cents a pound, round roasts 85 and rump roasts 89.

Both cured and fresh pork items are economically priced. Poultry features include turkey, in the Midwest especially; chicken fryers, particularly in the Southeast, and roasting chickens.

Fresh vegetable offerings include cabbage, radishes, tomatoes, celery, onions and potatoes. Iceberg lettuce has come down in price at the same time quality has risen.

Fruit buys continue to be bananas, apples, pears and canned cherries. Also, citrus prices are slipping downward, with oranges, lemons and grapefruit becoming more attractive.

Republic Steel Opens New Massillon Plant

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Republic Steel Corp. has placed in operation at its plant in Massillon a 56-inch wide bright annealing line for stainless steel which was built at a cost of approximately $3 million, the company announced today.

With the new installation, along with a 24-inch wide line completed in 1961, Republic can bright anneal all grades of stainless in a wide range of widths and gauges, said R. P. Carpenter vice president in charge of bar, alloy and pipe operations.

Most Read Too Slowly

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Dr. Don Cox, administrative head of the reading clinic at the University of Oklahoma, says most Americans read about 250 words per minute.

But he points out the minimum standard for professional people is 600 words per minute and persons who read about 450 words a minute can just about get by in college.

Dust Opposes Nature

One of those scientists from the Canadian National Research Council says summer resorts could open up small lakes and rivers for late spring swimming and boating activities by the use of dust. He claims that all one has to do to get ice to melt quickly under the rays of the spring sun is to spread a thin layer of dust, or any dark material, over a frozen water area scraped clear of snow.

Already two dark substances have been successful in ice-melting experiments — carbon dust and ordinary black sand. All one needs to do is spread one or both of them in zig-zag patterns along rivers to help form early spring channels, and even-ly on larger ice surfaces.

Begorrah!

If your worry agenda has room for it, you might ponder the sad state of the shamrock situation. Here we are, with St. Patrick's Day approaching, and the news out of Ireland is that severe winter weather has wiped out the shamrock crop.

This is an interesting discovery. It isn't difficult to imagine all sorts of things rising out of it. Planes spraying sand on lakes, for instance. Or practical jokers spreading carbon dust at a discreet distance around an ice fisherman's hut and watching it sail away on a floe. And a wind coming up and blowing all the dust off an ice area scraped clear of snow.

All this is beside the point, however. What is needed along with the dust is something that will heat the water to make it suitable for swimmers who aren't members of polar bear clubs. Until that is found, nature should be allowed to continue to melt the ice in its own tiresome way.

It's something for everyone to be concerned about. How can anyone be sure the shamrocks he buys are genuine? Nothing would spoil St. Patrick's Day like sham shamrocks.

Bad News for a Sick Man

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—My wife came into my sickroom and tossed the family crying towel on the bed. "Well, what's the bad news now?" I asked her.

"Are you sure you're man enough to take it, Rover?" said Frances.

"Of course I can," I told her proudly. "Any man who is simultaneously suffering from Asian flu and the gout . . . any man who aches from his epiglottitis to his tarsus . . . any man who can't cough without feeling his foot is going to fly off . . . that man can only smile at any further blow of fate. Just what is the dreadful news?"

"Well, the truth is that this is your birthday," said Frances. "You are 52 years old today. Shall I call up President Kennedy and ask him to declare you a human disaster area?"

"No, just tiptoe away and bake me a cake while I lie here and revel in my boyish dreams," I replied.

Time was when I was a birthday fighter. For weeks before I tore off that annual page on the calendar, I felt blue and was afflicted by dreadful feelings of mortality.

Not any more. Every birthday now I share the feeling of Joe E. Lewis, the night club comedian, who says that his first thought on waking each morning is, "Well, I made it again!"

While I see no reason for hula-baloos at reaching 52, or dancing in joy across the rooftops, I find no particular reason for raging against the gods either.

Probably a million and a half or more Americans will become 52 years old this year. If they can take it without lapsing into a coma, I can too.

The fact is that this achievement leaves me with a kind of quiet smugness, a snobbery of success, if you please.

The terrible years are those from 35 to 50. Then every birthday is taken by a man as a personal defeat, as he feels the prime of life slowly ebbing.

But at 50 you turn the corner. Every birthday from then on is a personal victory—if one has the common sense to look at it in that light.

After 50 you feel less guilty about what you haven't done, and more satisfied with what you did manage to do. Your memory becomes each year an ever-growing granary.

So, at 52, I found I had only one birthday wish to make as I asthmatically huffed and puffed out the candles on the cake baked for me by my wife and daughter—to make it to 53.

Won't you join me?

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — United States money transactions with the rest of the world have taken a turn for the worse in recent months. But there's been nothing that could be called a new raid on its gold reserves. Times have changed.

And the price of the metal in world markets has remained stable—even below the official price at which the U.S. Treasury sells, $35.0875 an ounce.

An increase in the deficit of payments in the final months of 1962 is a cause of worry to the Washington money managers and to those trying to boost U.S. exports higher.

But the stability of gold and the evident strength of the dollar in world financial markets is cause of considerable satisfaction.

Much of the thanks goes to the group of central bankers, American and foreigners, who have rigged up a device to halt the raids that in the past unsettled one or another currency and for a brief period put the American dollar under strain to the surprise of most Americans who thought it as good as gold.

The group acts quietly. In fact, American money managers have never officially said the United States was taking part. But the success of this quiet pooling of international financial resources to protect currencies against the stress of temporary ups and downs of trade and financial balances shows plainly in the state gold market as reported daily from London. This week prices have been below $35.08 an ounce making any buying of U.S. government gold unprofitable.

This very real, if officially unannounced, international gold pool keeps the London free market stable simply by buying when the price is below the official U.S. Treasury figure. When the price goes above that figure the pool can step in and sell.

This swells the amount of gold available, and as the supply goes up the demand is met and the price returns to the desired level.

The pool doesn't pretend it can protect the dollar forever if the balance of payments deficit keeps mounting. That is why the United States has taken many measures to boost the total of U.S. exports on one hand and to discourage the outflow of dollars on the other. The measures have fallen short of their goal.

The deficit last year was $2.2 billion—that many more dollars leaving this shore to pay for imports, foreign aid, military aid overseas, and investments there than came back for exports and other dollar winners. The 1962 deficit was an improvement over the $2.4 billion the previous year and the $4 billion one of 1960.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE ADVERTISING manager of a billion-dollar corporation in New York was for years the honorary president of the Chamber of Commerce in the small upstate town in which he had been born.

One year it was suggested that he be the Man of the Year at the Chamber's annual banquet. He immediately summoned his secretary and dictated three letters in rapid succession. The first was a flowery written invitation to accept the honor which has been bestowed upon him. The second was an answer by himself graciously accepting the invitation. The third was a note of thanks to himself for responding to the invitation so promptly.

As his secretary snapped shut her notebook, she sighed with relief and told him, "Phew! For a moment, there, I didn't think you were going to get him!"

According to John W. Maxson Jr., a personable young milkman recently found this message tucked into an empty bottle on a suburbanite's doorstep:

- "Dear Mr. Happy Bovine Dairies:
Please leave the following:
1. Four quarts Grade A milk.
2. One pint of cream.
3. Your final bill.
4. The premises.
5. My wife alone.

Sincerely"

Guide to Better Health

By HARRY J. JOHNSON, M.D.

A regular checkup once a year is your best health insurance but once-in-a-while is better than not at all.

Unfortunately, however, lack of complete understanding of the periodic health checkup still prevents most persons from cashing in on what is perhaps the most precious offering in the vast treasury of medical practice — the very real regards of preventive medicine.

Preventive medicine is defined as that practice by the physician which will show a patient the way to better, healthier living, and which will detect the existence of disease at the earliest possible time, so that treatment will be more effective, less costly, and less agonizing.

The basis of preventive medicine is the periodic health examination.

The trouble, I believe, lies in the fact that somehow doctors have failed to impress modern man with the idea that the body machine needs to be husbanded with just as much care and pride as a machine that can always be replaced. Let me describe, for instance, a scene that is perhaps familiar to everyone.

It's Sunday morning and the place is the parking spot in front of Mr. Joe Goodguy's home. Joe is out there carefully washing down his car. Then he carefully dries it. Then he rubs a little wax on here and there; just a few spots. Good thing I caught those spots early, says Joe to himself. Might have ended up with some ugly rust. This ol' buggy's got to last an other couple of years.

Without realizing it, Joe Goodguy, of whom there are millions equally proud and alert, has just practiced preventive medicine on his auto.

But how about himself? His wife?

Are they not precious to each other, to the children? Is not health a possession worthy of care and pride? Won't you feel just as pleased to know, perhaps, that the doctor spotted a few potential rust spots and now that you know about it you will be sure to keep the ol' body machine in the medical "garage," where it belongs, under a doctor's care?

I am aware that there is a basic flaw in the analogy between the family car and the body machine. Preventive maintenance on a car is relatively simple.

But preventive medicine on the body machine is more difficult. You may be feeling perfectly fit. Nothing seems wrong with you so why go? What's the point in using all that time and effort and money just to hear the medical practitioner tell you what you know already? Besides, you do have common sense. You do go to the doctor at the first sign of something wrong. So why go through a lot of ritual that you don't understand and that may be an economic luxury.

I know it is not enough to appeal to common sense alone. But on the basis of nearly two generations of personal experience I can assure you that even the person who is feeling quite well can collect an ample reward for follow-

Dumb Like a Fox

By John Chamberlain

Whether there will be a new labor crisis in steel this coming Spring is a question. But as the leaders of the United Steelworkers union mull over their chances for wringing new concessions from the steel companies, they must be reflecting on a queer irony: Roger Blough, who was a scorned and derided figure last year when he was forced to back down on the matter of a price rise, now looms up as a farsighted man. He has made it tough for the steel union to make out a plausible case for any hefty increases in wages or benefits for 1963.

Even Mr. Blough's conservative friends were guilty of kicking him a year ago after President Kennedy had told him off. They talked pitifully about his "blunder" in public relations, his poor sense of "timing." Roger Blough of U. S. Putty was the phrase that William Buckley's conservative National Review pinned on him for alleged pusillanimity in failing to stand up in the face of Kennedy's withering blast.

It seemed to cross nobody's mind during the furore and hulla-balloo that maybe Mr. Blough, in establishing the point that the steel industry needed profits in order to keep its plant up to snuff was putting his company and his industry in a good bargaining position for future crises in labor relations. My own impression of Roger Blough, gained from past journalistic encounters with him, is that he is a cutie, a "phony hick" in the description which Arthur Krock once applied to a writer who pretended to a wide-eyed innocence in order to lure people into boastful confession.

Not so long ago I went to see Mr. Blough on an assignment. I was supposed to find out what the United States Steel Corporation was doing to combat the workings of Parkinson's Law of bureaucratic "empire building" as it applied to ambitious department heads in the steel business. I got no good answers to my questions for the very good reason that Mr. Blough had no intention of admitting that there was any departmental featherbedding in U. S. Steel to counteract. Mr. Blough was a shrewd man, all right; before the interview was over he was trying to niterest me in a story about the inequities of Minnesota State tax law as it applied to the mining of iron ore on the Mesabi Range.

Since Mr. Blough knows his own industry, he could not have been really sanguine last April that a price rise could have been made to stock for very long. No business that is operating a good deal short of capacity will refuse to shade its prices in order to attract customers.

When machinery is standing idle, the stated — or "administered" — price is one thing, and the actual price at the moment of dealing is another. Mr. Blough is just as much aware of this rule of competition as any man alive.

So the scheduled steel prices would probably have been broken even if President Kennedy had kept a civil tongue in his head. Nevertheless, the gesture on the part of U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and other companies was worth the making. In the first place, it succeeded in calling wide attention to the fact that industry must find some valid method of financing the modernization of decrepit manufacturing facilities. Once he had turned thumbs down on higher steel prices, President Kennedy could hardly refuse to listen to the corporations' plea for a more lenient depreciation policy, and some ultimate relief from the 52 percent tax on corporate profits.

Beyond this, Mr. Blough accomplished another thing: he put the United Steelworkers union in a bad position to ask for a big wage increase this year or next. Should the Kennedy Administration seem about to sanction a general wage increase in steel for 1963 or 1964, it would certainly be assailed with loud cries of favoritism. When Kennedy refused to countenance a rise in steel prices, he based his decision on a general stand against inflation. He can hardly shift his ground this year without risking the charge of inconsistency, mental dishonesty, and craven truckling to the labor vote. And it is no less a person that Roger Blough who has managed to tie the President's hands.

A yodel, this Roger Blough? Would that you and I could be so clever.

Time was when I was a birthday fighter. For weeks before I tore off that annual page on the calendar, I felt blue and was afflicted by dreadful feelings of mortality.

Not any more. Every birthday now I share the feeling of Joe E. Lewis, the night club comedian, who says that his first thought on waking each morning is, "Well, I made it again!"

While I see no reason for hula-baloos at reaching 52, or dancing in joy across the rooftops, I find no particular reason for raging against the gods either.

Probably a million and a half or more Americans will become 52 years old this year. If they can take it without lapsing into a coma, I can too.

The fact is that this achieve-

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP)—United States money transactions with the rest of the world have taken a turn for the worse in recent months. But there's been nothing that could be called a new raid on its gold reserves. Times have changed.

And the price of the metal in world markets has remained stable—even below the official price at which the U.S. Treasury sells, $35.0875 an ounce.

An increase in the deficit of payments in the final months of 1962 is a cause of worry to the Washington money managers and to those trying to boost U.S. exports higher.

But the stability of gold and the evident strength of the dollar in world financial markets is cause of considerable satisfaction.

Much of the thanks goes to the group of central bankers, American and foreigners, who have rigged up a device to halt the raids that in the past unsettled one or another currency and for a brief period put the American

Ag Labor Force To Hold Steady

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Labor Department predicts the supply of labor available to agriculture in 1963 will be as large if not larger than in 1962.

The department said it does not expect much movement of workers from farm to non-farm jobs.

"While 1963 is expected to be a good year for business, the outlook is not bright enough to suggest much movement of workers from farms," a report said. "The level of spending by business, consumers and government may rise about 2 or 3 per cent over the 1962 level, but this is not expected to create enough new jobs to accommodate the growth of the labor force."

"Of particular importance to farmers is the rapid growth of the teen-age labor force. It has increased at the rate of 167,000 per year in recent years. Teen-agers are more likely to take farm jobs than adults."

The department also predicted a further shift this year of operators of small marginal farms to the farm wage force.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal marketing quotas will continue for the next three crops of cigar-binder and cigar-filler and binder types of tobacco.

Growers overwhelmingly approved continuation of the marketing quotas in a referendum Tuesday, the Department of Agriculture said.

The department reported that growers of cigar-binder types 51 and 52, grown mostly in Massachusetts and Connecticut voted 330-14 in favor of continued controls, a majority of 95.9 per cent.

Producers of cigar-filler and binder types 42, 43, 44, 53, 54 and 55, grown mostly in Ohio and Wisconsin, approved the controls 2,083-224, a majority of 90.3 per cent.

Continuation of the quotas required approval by two-thirds of the growers voting.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department's Economic Service predicts that the nation's poultry industry faces further integration of production, marketing and processing in the absence of what it called national poultry programs.

"It is possible," the report said, "that the industry will become increasingly integrated into a relatively small number of large-scale poultry meat manufacturing firms. These firms would combine feed manufacturing, broiler production and broiler processing stages."

Agricultural integration, which is opposed by many farm leaders has made greater progress in the poultry industry than in any phase of farming.

The report said the development of a federal supply-management program—one embracing production quotas designed to balance output with demand—"is one of a number of possibilities that might change the basis of competition and preserve larger numbers of competitive producing units less

Colorful Soldier of Fortune Dies in Utah at Age of 81

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Charles Sweeney, a millionaire's son who turned soldier of fortune to fight in seven wars under five flags, died Wednesday—in a hospital bed—of infirmities of age. He was 81.

A native of San Francisco, the tall, erect, ruddy-faced adventurer was one of the organizers of the Lafayette Escadrille in which Americans flew for France during World War I. Before America entered World War II, he organized the Royal Air Force's American "Eagle Squadron."

Sweeney's yen for adventure became apparent at the age of 16, when he enlisted in the U.S. Army and fought in the Spanish-American War.

He returned to graduate from the University of Notre Dame and the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. He rounded out his military education at France's Ecole Militaire.

Sweeney enlisted as a private in the French Foreign Legion in 1914 and rose to the rank of lieutenant colonel within three years. He was transferred to the U.S. Army in 1917 when America entered the war.

Wounded three times, he retired at the end of the war as a colonel. Pursuing adventure, Sweeney fought as a general in the Polish army against the Bolsheviks, then joined the revolutionary army of

Cincinnati Area Employment Declines

CINCINNATI (AP)—Employment in the Cincinnati area declined 2.2 per cent from December to January, the State Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports.

The BUC said most of the decline was due to seasonal layoffs in construction and retailing industries. Cincinnati's average weekly manufacturing wage also dropped—from $109.44 per person in December to $108.44 in January.

Kemal Ataturk of Turkey.

In 1925, he was captain of an American squadron which fought for France in Morocco. He served as a military adviser to the Spanish loyalists in Spain's civil war.

The French Foreign Legion commissioned him a major general in 1939 after the outbreak of World War II.

During his career, Sweeney also served as a correspondent for American publications. He returned to the United States in 1942 and in 1944 made his home in Salt Lake City.

Survivors include his widow, Eva, who lives in France; and a son, Charles Jr., of Salt Lake City.

28 Governors Invited To Gettysburg Event

HARRISBURG Pa. Colorful Soldier of Fortune Dies in Utah at Age of 81

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Charles Sweeney, a millionaire's son who turned soldier of fortune to fight in seven wars under five flags, died Wednesday—in a hospital bed—of infirmities of age. He was 81.

A native of San Francisco, the Five Students Earn Honors at Miami

The Miami University Dean's List for the past semester, comprised of all undergraduate students who registered averages of "B" or above for a course-load of 12 hours or more, included five students from the Circleville and Pickaway County area.

Honor students are Valerie Lee Hamilton, 1063 Georgia Road; Deena Kay Musselman, 105 Collins Court; Martha Ann Samuel, 880 N. Court St.; Sandra Sue Smith, 145 Montclair Ave.; and Barbara Jean Remy, Route 1, New Holland.

tall, erect, ruddy-faced adventurer was one of the organizers of the Lafayette Escadrille in which Americans flew for France during World War I. Before America entered World War II, he organized the Royal Air Force's American "Eagle Squadron."

Sweeney's yen for adventure became apparent at the age of 16, when he enlisted in the U.S. Army and fought in the Spanish-American War.

He returned to graduate from the University of Notre Dame and the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. He rounded out his military education at France's Ecole Militaire.

Sweeney enlisted as a private in the French Foreign Legion in 1914 and rose to the rank of lieutenant colonel within three years. He was transferred to the U.S. Army in 1917 when America entered the war.

Wounded three times, he retired at the end of the war as a colonel. Pursuing adventure, Sweeney fought as a general in the Polish army against the Bolsheviks, then joined the revolutionary army of

Cincinnati Area Employment Declines

CINCINNATI (AP)—Employment in the Cincinnati area declined 2.2 per cent from December to January, the State Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports.

The BUC said most of the decline was due to seasonal layoffs in construction and retailing industries. Cincinnati's average weekly manufacturing wage also dropped—from $109.44 per person in December to $108.44 in January.

In 1925, he was captain of an American squadron which fought for France in Morocco. He served as a military adviser to the Spanish loyalists in Spain's civil war.

The French Foreign Legion commissioned him a major general in 1939 after the outbreak of World War II.

During his career, Sweeney also served as a correspondent for American publications. He returned to the United States in 1942 and in 1944 made his home in Salt Lake City.

Survivors include his widow, Eva, who lives in France; and a son, Charles Jr., of Salt Lake City.

28 Governors Invited To Gettysburg Event

HARRISBURG Pa. (AP)—Ohio, West Virginia and Michigan are among 28 states being asked to send their governors to participate in a commemoration July 1-4 of the 100th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, the office of Gov. Five Points Social Hour Club Meets Nineteen members answered roll call Friday evening when the Five Points Methodist Social Hour Club met in the church basement for their February meeting. A covered dish dinner preceded the meeting with Mr. and Mrs. Herman Porter serving as hosts.

Mrs. Elbee Jones, president, opened the meeting with group singing, "Near The Cross". Mrs. Clark Dennis read the scripture from 1 John 4: 11-14 verses. Mrs. Francis Furniss, secretary and Mrs. Ned Long, treasurer, reported.

Thank you notes were read from Mrs. Gary Reiterman, Mrs. Richard Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dennis for flowers and cards received while they were in hospitals. Laura Long and Herman Porter paid birthday dues.

Plans on money making projects were discussed and Mrs. Paul Dawson gave a reading, "My Valentine". Mrs. Arthur Winfough read, "Reaching" and Mrs. Porter read "The Valentine Box." The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer. Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss will be hosts for the March meeting.

WCTU Units Hold Session

The Laurelville and Adelphi WCTU met recently in the home of Mrs. G. H. Armstrong with Mrs. Elsie Armstrong assisting.

Mrs. Ray Poling was in charge of devotions and she read I Corinthians 3: a paper on "All Things Belong to You" and offered prayer. Mrs. Orland DeLong was in charge of the program. Several readings were presented by Mrs. Elsie Armstrong, Mrs. Earl DeLong, Mrs. George Rihl and the program chairman.

Mrs. George Rihl was welcomed as a new member. Others present were Mrs. Thomas Hockman and Mrs. Ed Fetherolf.

Mr. and Mrs. Delano Younkin of Ashville are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Evelyn Marlene, to Mr. Harold Lloyd Bickel, son of Mrs. Lydia Bickel, Ashville, and the late Mr. Thomas Glenn Bickel.

Miss Younkin is a graduate of Ashville High School and also of Riverside-White Cross School of Nursing in Columbus. At the present time she is assistant head nurse of the medical surgical unit of Berger Hospital.

Mr. Bickel is a graduate of Ashville High School and is employed in industrial instrumentation at Owens-Illinois Glass Company in Columbus.

The open church wedding will be an event of May 19 in St. Paul Lutheran Church, Ashville. The Rev. H. E. Geise will officiate.

Mrs. Marvin Jones, Kingston, will speak on "Easter Arrangements."

Dear Abby: Marriage Isn't for Kids

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I think the parent-planned marriages like they had in the old country years ago should become a custom in this country. Why not let the girls marry at 16 and finish their education in an all-married-girls' high school? It would save a lot of wear and tear on parents who have a tough time keeping their daughters in line. MRS. C.

Wedding Plans Completed for Saturday Eve

Plans have been completed for the open church wedding of Miss Anne Chapin Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Steele, 531 N. Pickaway St., to Lt. (J.G.) David E. Carpenter, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Carpenter, 713 N. Pickaway St.

The Rev. Henry A. Walters will perform the single ring ceremony at 7:30 p. m. Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church, Circleville. Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter will be hosts Friday for a dinner following the wedding rehearsal at 6 p. m.

Mrs. Charles Gerhardt will be matron of honor. Miss Carol Barnes, Miss Dottie Boggs and Miss Joycelyn Foulk will serve as bridesmaids and Miss Patricia Valentine, flower girl.

Mr. James W. Carpenter will serve as best man and ushers will be Mr. Wendell Emerine, Mr. Robert Fraser, Mr. Win Story, Mr. T. D. Van Camp and Mr. Stephen Neff. Ring bearer will be Mr. Daniel Kibler.

Group Will Convene

Salem WCTU will meet 1:30 p. m. tomorrow in the home of Mrs. Merle McAfee, Route 1, Kingston.

Wednesday Meet Set

Mrs. Darl McAfee will be hostess when members of The Child Advancement Club meet 7:30 Wednesday in the party room at Prairie Lanes.

Mrs. Jack Wise will be co-hostess. The program will be a discussion on physical development.

DEAR MRS. C.: Marriage is for mature people — not children. Granted, some mature people make a poor choice, but the key to keeping daughters in line is not wedlock. When a girl marries she should be mature enough to make a home for her husband and to rear any children that follow. Mixing school books with milk bottles and bills is for the birds.

DEAR ABBY: Just exactly what is an engagement ring supposed to mean, and how long should an engagement last? I got an engagement ring two years ago Christmas and so far my boy friend has made no plans for our future. When I ask him to help me set a wedding date, he finds a hundred excuses. The main one is that he is in debt. It is no wonder, the way he spends money before he gets it. Should I give him his ring back or wait some more? I am 22 and he is 24.

LONG ENGAGEMENT
DEAR LONG: Before you make that decision, collar your boy friend and ask him what his plans for the future are. If he has none — and doesn't want to make any — it means he is not seriously considering marriage. In which case, return his ring.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please explain why a girl has to accept a date with the first boy who asks her for a special occasion — or else stay home? The creepiest boys get wise to this and ask unreasonably early. I realize a girl can't refuse on the grounds that she hopes someone more desirable will ask her. But if she tells the early caller that she "might be out of town" and shows up with a date she makes the early caller mad at her. It seems there should be a way out for a girl.

ONE GIRL'S MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: If a girl does not care to accept a date with a fellow (no matter when he calls her), she should simply say, "I'm sorry I'm busy." (She could be "busy" at home, cleaning dresser drawers, etc.) The less fibbing a girl does, the better.

Ladies Aid To Meet

Whisler Ladies Aid will meet 1:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Church.

LIFE SAVED BY AMBULANCE STEWARD—Michael Christman, 14 months, nearly choked to death on that ominous looking, 2-inch wood screw in San Francisco. His mother, Mrs. Robert Christman, found him choking on the floor. She carried him across the street to a church. Father John Walsh called for an ambulance. Arliss Sherman, ambulance steward, stuck his finger into Mike's throat and held the screw aside so the baby could breathe. The screw was removed at the hospital, and Mike is doing fine.

Slezak Spreads His Talents

Actor Is Busy As Author, Lecturer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actors, like corporations, have found that it pays to diversify.

A large, living example of this economic theory is Walter Slezak, the Viennese bon vivant. He has financed the upkeep on his comfortable girth by branching out into two new fields with success that equals his achievements as an actor.

Slezak elaborated on his two new careers while on a brief visit to film a "Rawhide" segment for television. He came from the set wearing a middle-European gypsy costume, for lunch at the Tahitian restaurant.

"That is not the only anachronism," he said over his Canteen lunch. "In the show, which is set in 1870, I am playing a Brahms rhapsody which was written in 1876."

Take this book, "What Time's the Next Swan?"

It happened quite by accident, when Jean Kerr relayed some Slezak jokes to Ken McCormick, chief of Doubleday. The two men had lunch one day and discussed a possible book. At the end, McCormick wrote out a check for $5,000 and told the actor to start writing.

Many actors have tried their hands at books, ghosted or otherwise (Slezak used none). He has achieved the rare distinction of producing a bona fide best seller.

"It is an entirely different world, the book business," he said in awe. "I am amazed at how polite everyone is. Even when they ask for changes in your manuscript—I had only one, a joke about Albert Einstein that didn't come off—they are polite."

"What Time's the Next Swan" is a delightful book, but it no doubt received a push toward best-sellerdom by Slezak's other new line: lecturing.

"I gave 51 lectures in all parts of the country last year and was booked solid in October, November and December," he remarked craftily. "I am utterly shameless about plugging my book during my lectures."

An Adult Farmer Education Class will be conducted 8 p. m. Thursday in the Teay's Valley High School Auditorium. Guest speaker will be Dr. William Tyznik of Ohio State University.

His talk will be based on the livestock feeding. All interested persons are invited.

The Sologra Garden Club will meet noon Friday at the home of Mrs. Lucy Fausnaugh.

A luncheon will be held, followed by a home products party and a program on conservation.

Members of the Ashville Methodist Church and Church School and their families will enjoy a carry in dinner at 6:30 p. m. Sunday in the church basement. Following the dinner the film "The Will of Augusta Nash" will be shown.

The Teay's Valley Athletic Boosters will meet 7:30 p. m. Monday in the school. Plans will be made for the coming basketball banquet.

World Day of Prayer will be observed with the rest of the nation this Friday by the Hedges Chapel and Ashville Methodist Churches when they will hold a combined worship service from 1 to 3 p. m. in the Hedges Chapel Church. The public is invited to join in this two hours of worship.

In charge of the planning are Mrs. Don Courtwright and Mrs. Wayne Hines.

The Ashville Methodist WSCS will meet 8 p. m. Mar. 6 in the church. Program and worship leaders are Mrs. Cy Stickel and Mrs. Dick Pobst. On the refreshment committee are Mrs. E. R. Gregg, Mrs. Arthur Swingle, Mrs. William Cromley, Mrs. Richard Hedges and Miss Doris Cook.

The February meeting of the Ashville PTA was held Thursday evening in the school auditorium. The session opened with the pledge to the flag, followed with prayer by the Rev. A. L. Drewes, pastor of the First English Lutheran Church.

The secretary and treasurer reports were read and approved. The PTA will donate $35 to sponsor a girl to Girl's State and $40 to sponsor a boy to Boys State.

Edwin Irwin, school principal, told of the "no parking" signs now at Plum and Walnut Sts. They were furnished by the Ashville Kiwanis Club and erected by the village. He said it would also be advisable if a 20-mile speed zone sign could be put up at the intersection of Park St.

It was announced that a panel discussion will be held at the March meeting, directed by Mrs. John Triance, vice president. In April there is to be "Open House."

A motion was approved directing that the executive board and principal of Teay's Valley High School be sent a notice stating the Ashville PTA meetings be posted on a calendar. This would avoid conflicts with other events.

A question of why a PTA has not been formed at Teay's Valley High School was presented. Mrs. Emerson Dum was asked to check with Mrs. Donald Flierl who earlier made a study on this. She will report back at the next regular meeting.

Mrs. Charles Steven, wife of the newly hired pastor of the Baptist Church, was introduced. Roll call was won by grade six for having the most parents in attendance. After the meeting Chaplin Harold A. Lindberg of the Ohio State Penitentiary presented an interesting talk on religion and life in prison.

David Dunnick was taken to Mercy Hospital Feb. 20. He is expected to be returned home this week.

Ashville Brownie Troop No. 238 held its weekly meeting at the Ashville Methodist Church Monday evening. Present were 14 girls and their two leaders, Mrs. Archie Stewart and Mrs. Chet Peters.

Members finished learning the Girl Scout Laws. The girls also filled out a paper explaining the annual Birthday Party given by Lazarus to be given to their parents to read.

Ashville Kiwanis Club met Feb. 19 at the Bastian Coffee Shop for a weekly dinner meeting. Guests for the evening was an inner-club group from Columbus Downtown composed of Dave Fenner, Ray Fenner, Aussie Austin, Joe Risley, and Joe Love. At the same time a group from Ashville was inter-clubbing with Grove City.

Howard Hosler presided in the absence of Benis Lutz and Seibert Duval.

Since this was Brotherhood Week the ministers of the area had been invited as their guests. Present were Rev. Drewes of the Ashville Lutheran Church, Rev. Geise of the St. Paul Lutheran Church, Rev. Stephens of the Ashville Baptist Church, Rev. Morgan of the Ashville Evangelical United Brethren Church, and Rev. Shertzer of the Ashville and Hedges Chapel Methodist Churches.

Roland Featheringham, chairman of the committee for the support of churches, presented the ministers and introduced the speaker, the Rev. John Morgan. His talk was on "A Way of Life". He suggested that the five columns supporting a person's way of life were education, family, government, religion and economics. He pointed out some of the weaknesses in these columns, that might let the "roof" sag or collapse.

The guest speaker for Feb. 26 will be Ed Wallace, State Representative, who will speak on legislative matters.

A Valentine Dinner Party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hedges for 16 members and guests of the Town and Country Club.

The Ashville-Harrison Volunteer Fire Department answered a call 9 a. m. Saturday to the residence of William Stevens of South Bloomfield. The fire was discovered in the covering on steam pipes caused by the lack of water in the boiler on the heating system. Damage was listed at $15. The house is owned by Arthur Gifford, RFD, Circleville.

The Bastian Funeral Home made the following ambulance runs this past week: Feb. 23—removed Georgia Porter of South Bloomfield to Mercy Hospital; Feb. 24—removed Leo Rohrer from Darbyville to University Hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Sliwinski visited in Cleveland this past weekend. Dr. Sliwinski's mother returned home with them to spend the week.

Mrs. Joe Brewer visited the past week in Zionsville, Ind., with relatives and friends. On Thursday she met her husband in Chicago where they attended the International Road Show. They returned home Monday afternoon. Their daughter, Cathy, stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Trego and family while her parents were away.

Also attending the International Road Show in Chicago this week is Wayne Bisker, Route 2, Ashville. He left by plane Wednesday morning.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bastian and family Friday were Mrs. Bastian's parents, Rev. and Mrs. L. D. Vesey of Zanesville and aunt, Mrs. George Warda of Montevideo, Uruguay.

Mrs. Warda visited in the afternoon with both 6th grade classes and Mrs. Hoover's 4th grade class at Ashville Grade School. She told of her country and the native people living there. The 6th grade classes are now studying South America countries.

Illness has hit hard in the Ashville Grade School this week, especially in the way of mumps, measles, chicken-pox and flu. Absences in the grade school Monday numbered 144 and 160 on Tuesday. Scioto reported 42 out on Monday and 39 on Tuesday. Walnut had 71 absent Monday and 73 Tuesday.

U.S. Information Agency Releases Foreign Opinion Poll

WASHINGTON (AP) — After prodding by Congress and the press, the U.S. Information Agency has finally stripped the secrecy labels from some of its polls of public opinion in other lands.

But any bitter taste of controversy had been aged out of them. All are at least a year old.

How did some of the foreign countries regard President Kennedy? In January 1961 the net favorable opinion of those polled concerning Kennedy, then newly elected, ranged from 92 per cent in Lima to 34 per cent in New Delhi. The net opinion of Soviet Premier Khrushchev ranged from plus 53 per cent in New Delhi to minus 68 per cent in Saigon.

All in all, newsmen were handed 34 studies sampling foreigners' views on such subjects as Fidel Castro, American women, the U.S. library at Battambang, radio listening in Taiwan and you-name-it.

The findings had little current news impact. USIA offered to show its polls of previous years too, but had no immediate takers. USIA Chief Edward R. Murrow called the policy of releasing the polls "a significant departure."

Chillicothe Man Shot to Death in Bar

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Chris C. Austin, 33, of Rt. 2, Chillicothe, was shot to death Wednesday night at the Oasis Bar on Mount Vernon Avenue, city police reported.

Officers said Austin suffered a bullet wound in the left chest. No arrests had been made early today, but several witnesses were being questioned.

reported a lighter absence list. A total of 58 was absent both Monday and Tuesday.

Ashville Senior Girl Scout Troop No. 772 met Monday evening in the Ashville School. The meeting was opened with members repeating the Girl Scout Pledge.

It was announced that the Reorganization Senior Girl Scout Planning Meeting will be held March 14 in Columbus with a carry-in dinner. Several of the girls are planning to attend.

Projects planned for the near future are a bake sale on Mar. 16 and a movie for children of this community in April in the grade school building. The date will be announced later.

The next regular meeting will be Mar. 11.

and promised to make more polls public—but not until they are at least a year old.

The agency says the reason for delay is to avoid releasing the polls while they are still fresh enough to damage U.S. foreign relations, for instance by embarrassing the government where the poll was taken.

The new USIA policy was announced by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., after an inquiry by his House Government Information subcommittee. Moss hailed the action as a step for freedom of information.

Under the new system, Murrow said USIA will: (1) Supply its polls to congressional committees and ask they keep the material secret; (2) Make public after one year its polls classified "for official use only" and after two years those stamped with the higher classification "confidential."

As to what some of the poll found:

February 1961—Urban opinion of Castro in seven Latin American countries ranged from 3 per cent rating him "very good" in Argentina to only 1 per cent in Mexico. The Cuban prime minister ranked "very bad" with 16 per cent polled in Mexico up to 40 per cent in Peru. Those never having heard of Castro ranged from 1 per cent among Venezuelan city dwellers to 96 per cent among Brazilian country folk.

September 1960—Western Europeans have a net favorable opinion of women's activities in the United States. Some Europeans admire American women for their vitality and independence. Others call them bad housewives and domineering.

December 1960—Montevideoans' esteem for President Eisenhower rose after his visit to Uruguay but the image of the United States as a friend of Uruguay declined.

MANSFIELD SAYS BIPARTISAN MEETING MAY HELP—Following a White House meeting between Democratic leaders and President Kennedy, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield (right) says a meeting the night before between congressional leaders of both parties and the President might lead to a more bipartisan approach to Cuba and other foreign policy matters. With Mansfield are (from left) House Speaker John McCormack, Vice President Lyndon Johnson and Rep. Hale Boggs.

How Weather Looks Today

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bastian and family Friday were Mrs. Bastian's parents, Rev. and Mrs. L. D. Vesey of Zanesville and aunt, Mrs. George Warda of Montevideo, Uruguay.

Mrs. Warda visited in the afternoon with both 6th grade classes and Mrs. Hoover's 4th grade class at Ashville Grade School. She told of her country and the native people living there. The 6th grade classes are now studying South America countries.

Illness has hit hard in the Ashville Grade School this week, especially in the way of mumps, measles, chicken-pox and flu. Absences in the grade school Monday numbered 144 and 160 on Tuesday. Scioto reported 42 out on Monday and 39 on Tuesday. Walnut had 71 absent Monday and 73 Tuesday.

U.S. Information Agency Releases Foreign Opinion Poll

WASHINGTON (AP) — After prodding by Congress and the press, the U.S. Information Agency has finally stripped the secrecy labels from some of its polls of public opinion in other lands.

But any bitter taste of controversy had been aged out of them. All are at least a year old.

How did some of the foreign countries regard President Kennedy? In January 1961 the net favorable opinion of those polled concerning Kennedy, then newly elected, ranged from 92 per cent in Lima to 34 per cent in New Delhi. The net opinion of Soviet Premier Khrushchev ranged from plus 53 per cent in New Delhi to minus 68 per cent in Saigon.

All in all, newsmen were handed 34 studies sampling foreigners' views on such subjects as Fidel Castro, American women, the U.S. library at Battamban, radio listening in Taiwan and you-name-it.

The findings had little current news impact. USIA offered to show its polls of previous years too, but had no immediate takers.

USIA Chief Edward R. Murrow called the policy of releasing the polls "a significant departure" and promised to make more polls public—but not until they are at least a year old.

The agency says the reason for delay is to avoid releasing the polls while they are still fresh enough to damage U.S. foreign relations, for instance by embarrassing the government where the poll was taken.

The new USIA policy was announced by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., after an inquiry by his House Government Information subcommittee. Moss hailed the action as a step for freedom of information.

Under the new system, Murrow said USIA will: (1) Supply its polls to congressional committees and ask they keep the material secret; (2) Make public after one year its polls classified "for official use only" and after two years those stamped with the higher classification "confidential."

As to what some of the poll found:

February 1961—Urban opinion of Castro in seven Latin American countries ranged from 3 per cent rating him "very good" in Argentina to only 1 per cent in Mexico. The Cuban prime minister ranked "very bad" with 16 per cent polled in Mexico up to 40 per cent in Peru. Those never having heard of Castro ranged from 1 per cent among Venezuelan city dwellers to 86 per cent among Brazilian country folk.

September 1960—Western Europeans have a net favorable opinion of women's activities in the United States. Some Europeans admire American women for their vitality and independence. Others call them bad housewives and domineering.

December 1960—Montevideans' esteem for President Eisenhower rose after his visit to Uruguay but the image of the United States as a friend of Uruguay declined.

MANSFIELD SAYS BIPARTISAN MEETING MAY HELP—Following a White House meeting between Democratic leaders and President Kennedy, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield (right) says a meeting the night before between congressional leaders of both parties and the President might lead to a more bipartisan approach to Cuba and other foreign policy matters. With Mansfield are (from left) House Speaker John McCormack, Vice President Lyndon Johnson and Rep. Hale Boggs.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Cloudy skies and slowly rising temperatures were general over Ohio Wednesday night.

A one to three inch snowfall occurred over the northern counties. Considerably lesser amounts were observed elsewhere.

Temperatures at daybreak today averaged about 30 degrees warmer than those of Wednesday morning. Temperatures included Columbus and Dayton 25, Toledo and Zanesville 24, Youngstown 19, Marietta 28, Cincinnati 30, and Copeake 39.

Cloudy skies and scattered light snow flurries are likely over much of the state today. Temperatures will become considerably colder tonight and Friday, with a good chance of some sunshine Friday.

There are more than 10,000 typoes and sizes of light bulbs. Of these, 35 types are designed for home use.

Atheist Mother Calls Self Maverick in Religious Area

BALTIMORE (AP) — A woman atheist, who is fighting in the U.S. Supreme court against an order for Bible reading in Maryland public schools, charges harassment by neighbors and says "I am a maverick in a religious area."

The woman, Mrs. Madelyn J. Murray, a divorcee from Mansfield, Ohio, says her 16-year-old son William, also an avowed atheist, has been abused in school by his teachers and classmates.

The boy a high school junior, even was assigned a school locker in the girls' locker area, she says.

Mrs. Murray blames school and neighborhood incidents on her suit now pending in the Supreme Court in Washington.

The woman and her son have asked the high court to invalidate a Maryland school order requiring the reading of a passage from the Old Testament and recitation of the Lord's Prayer as part of opening exercises. They seek to have the 55-year-old order of the Maryland School Board ruled unconstitutional.

She contended that because her son skipped opening exercises he was harassed and abused in school.

She said the boy was assigned 45 hours of extra homework a week for seven weeks, purportedly to make up the 19 days he missed while absent from school. Mrs. Murray said her son also had been prevented from attending all school assemblies, gym class, the cafeteria, the library period and outdoor recess periods.

She also maintained that the boy had been "systematically prevented from speaking with other students . . . to isolate and separate him psychologically as well as physically from his classmates. . . ."

In arguments Wednesday before the Supreme Court, the woman's lawyer urged the tribunal to maintain the "wall of separation" between church and state.

His argument drew extensive questioning from some of the justices.

Leonard J. Kerpelman, attorney for Mrs. Madelyn E. Murray, an atheist, declared prayer and Bible reading at school was a religious ceremony and that Mrs. Murray's son had been spat upon, assaulted and ostracized because he did not join in the religious exercise.

Kerpelman's reference to the "wall of separation" brought a quick response from Justice Potter Stewart.

"I have read the First Amendment and I never saw that language in it," said the justice.

Under questioning by Stewart, Kerpelman said a majority of parents want their children to participate in the exercise.

"Then," said Stewart, "if we strike down the school board requirement we are interfering with the right of the majority to their free exercise of religion."

Kerpelman replied that his objection was to the establishment of religion by use of the public school ceremony.

The court is hearing legal debate on two appeals dealing with religious activities in public schools of Pennsylvania and Maryland. The Pennsylvania case will be argued later.

The cases have national scope and will give the tribunal an opportunity to spell out how far it believes the founding fathers intended to go in separating church and state.

Interest in the Pennsylvania and Maryland cases sharpened after the Supreme Court's 6-1 decision last June 25, declaring unconstitutional the use in New York public schools of a non-denominational prayer written by state school officials.

That decision brought down a storm of criticism on the court. Some critics saw it as the first step in an assault on the nation's religious heritage.

The court received support from those who contended the "official prayer" was a breach of the First and 14th Amendments to the Constitution.

The First Amendment states "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." The 14th Amendment, adopted in 1868, imposed these restrictions on the states as well as Congress.

Under its customary practice, the Supreme Court found it necessary to rule on the Pennsylvania and Maryland appeals—whether it wanted to or not.

In the Maryland case, a state court ruled Bible readings and recitation of the Lord's Prayer did not violate the Constitution. Federal judges in Pennsylvania, however, said the opposite. A final decision by the higher tribunal in such an important appeal was required.

Ohio Unemployment Increases in January

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Unemployment increased in Ohio during January, but the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation says the drop stemmed from seasonal layoffs in the construction and retailing industries.

The decline in all of the state's eight metropolitan areas ranged from 2 to 3 per cent with Dayton, at 3 per cent, leading the list. Unemployment increased from about 219,000 in December to 253,000 in January, the BUC said.

2,900 Due To Get Extra Idle Pay

COLUMBUS Ohio (AP)—Checks soon will be on the way to about 2,900 persons who were collecting unemployment compensation in 1959, when the Ohio Legislature increased benefits from $33 to $42 a week.

Donald B. Leach, whose resignation as administrator of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation is effective after work Friday, ended the three-year tie-up.

Leach authorized payment of the approximately $336,000 involved Wednesday, directing that checks be prepared and delivered as soon as possible.

The $9 increase became effective Oct. 16, 1959. The delay resulted because employers of the 2,900 appealed having the increase charged to their accounts under the bureau's merit system.

Leach said he is acting in accordance with a mandamus action issued earlier this week in the 10th District Court of Appeals in Columbus. But the question of charges to employers still is not determined, he said, adding that the matter should be brought to the immediate attention of his successor.

The Ohio Supreme Court held a year ago that the claimants are entitled to the increase.

Arson Rap Is Tied to Embezzlement

MEDINA, Ohio (AP) — A woman charged with embezzlement from the Medina Municipal Court has been accused of starting a fire that caused an estimated $50,000 damage to the court building Feb. 16.

State Fire Marshal Harold D. Carter said Wednesday that he had filed a charge of burning with intent to defraud against Anna S. Thiem, 42, of Brunswick.

Mrs. Thiem, a $300-a-month assistant clerk in the trusteeship department of the court was charged with embezzlement Monday and is held in the county jail here under $10,000 bond.

Authorities said she admitted taking about $2,000 from trusteeship accounts since November 1960 but had denied starting the fire.

County Prosecutor James Foreman said Mrs. Thiem had been ordered to produce the court's trusteeship records prior to the fire. A state examiner discovered discrepancies in checking the records.

Some of the records kept in a room on the second floor of the court building were destroyed by the fire.

2 Unions Make Peace With Papers

CLEVELAND (AP)—A contract agreement has been reached with a second striking union, but resumption of publication of Cleveland's two daily newspapers await agreements on eight more union contracts. The strike is now in its 91st day.

The Teamsters union, the first to strike on Nov. 29, reached agreement Wednesday with representatives of the Plain Dealer and the Press and News. The union's 455 drivers are expected to return to work by the end of the week.

The Teamsters' settlement provides for $5 in wage increases in each of the two years, plus improved working conditions. It matches the two-year, $10 wage packages previously accepted by the non-striking Pressmen and Paper Handlers.

The Teamsters were the fourth union to reach agreement with the publishers and the second of five striking unions to agree. Striking unions still to reach a settlement are the Printers, Mailers and Machinists.

New Ohio Bell Chief Is Only 47

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—There was a time, says Frederick R. Eckley, "when I figured I'd really have it made if I could earn 50 bucks a week."

That was in the latter half of the 1930s when "Depression" still was a household word.

Eckley, at that time only recently having completed his studies in economics and his varsity basketball playing at Ohio State University, just was starting his business career with New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. He had worked his way up to $28 a week.

Today, still a young man with quite a future, Eckley continues to work for the Bell system—as the new president of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

At 47, he's the youngest of the presidents of American Telephone and Telegraph Co.'s principal telephone subsidiaries. He's still a 185-pounder—his college weight—and stands 6 feet, 2½ inches.

He's also on the verge of becoming a grandfather. The oldest of his two daughters, wife of an Army Airborne lieutenant, expects her first child about June. The other daughter is a junior in high school in Cleveland, where Eckley has his office and the family lives in the Pepper Pike suburb near Shaker Heights.

Relaxing briefly in a hotel suite before an evening function in Columbus, the new Ohio Bell president summed up his first three months in the job by commenting:

"I've been getting around a lot, meeting people. I won't remember all the names, but I'll remember the faces. You can't find out what's going on in the company by sitting in your office. Your people won't lie to you, but they're inclined to tell you what you want to hear."

Before his election by Ohio Bell's board of directors to succeed Walter S. Sparling of Cleveland (who remains on the board), Eckley had been vice-president and general manager of Michigan Bell since January 1961.

From his start in New Jersey ("My dad had moved fairly well up in Ohio Bell so I didn't want to start here"), Eckley moved to the parent A.T. & T. Co. in New York in 1947, then to Northwestern Bell at Omaha in 1952, back to New York in 1956, and to Michigan in 1961.

His father retired in 1952 as an Ohio Bell vice-president. The senior Eckley, who taught him to hunt, fish and play golf—recreation he still enjoys, when he can—didn't try to influence his career choice, Eckley says, adding:

"It appealed to me. I'd seen my dad working at it and having fun."

NEW YORK (AP)—Writers on CBS' "Alvin Show," a cartoon series, recently turned up with an idea which had the little chipmunk characters giving their human father a hot foot.

"It was a very funny gag," said Ross Bagdasarian, creator of Alvin, "but when I finished laughing I turned it down. If we used it, I figured, we would have had at least 2,000 fathers on fire."

This cartoon feature is aimed directly at the child audience. Alvin and his chipmunk pals are patterned on Bagdasarian's own youngest, Adam. And the hapless human figure in the cartoon bares an amazing physical resemblance to Ross himself.

The chipmunks were born in 1958 when Bagdasarian wrote a song inspired by a question asked by three-year-old Adam. Since then "The Chipmunk Song" and successors with chattering voice effects have sold almost 20 million records. The cartoon show followed a couple of seasons later.

"We know that our own kids watch cartoons carefully," Bagdasarian said. "And we know all about children who have climbed up on the garage roof and planned to take off like 'Superman.' So we're awfully careful about what we do—no violence, no cruelty, to animals, just good clean fun and music."

NBC's new soap opera, which will partly replace the Merv Griffin show on April 1 is called "The Doctors."

CBS' Lucy Show and Danny Thomas have been knocked down in—but not out of—the new top 10 Nielsen ratings by NBC's new Monday night movies. The Andy Griffith Show, which follows NBC's movies on CBS jumped up into second place. But "Beverly Hillsbillies" still remains the champ.

Recommended Tonight: "Hornblower," ABC, 10-11 (Eastern Standard Time)—an hour drama based on the C. S. Forester tales—and made as a pilot film for a projected series.

SEARS SEARED DOWN—Bystanders look at smoldering remains of the Sears Roebuck warehouse in Caracas after Communist "commandos" overpowered three guards and set fire to the building. Damages run to $5 million. The burning was a move in a terror campaign against Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt's Feb. 18 U. S. visit.

Civil Rights Program Is Given Congress

2. Civil Rights Commission.
First set up in 1957, the commission goes out of business next November unless Congress acts. Kennedy asked that its life be extended at least four years. And he asked that Congress authorize it to expand into a national clearing house to provide information, advice and technical help to any public or private agency which wants them.

3. Voting rights.
Kennedy mentioned this first and gave it more attention than any other of his bids for legislation.

"The right to vote in a free American election," the President said, "is the most powerful and precious right in the world—and it must not be denied on the grounds of race or color."

He recommended, therefore, that priority treatment be granted voting suits in federal courts. He proposed that while the suits are pending federal referees be empowered to pass upon qualifications of would-be voters. (Under present law, referees can be appointed only after a court finds that discrimination exists.)

These two requests—administration officials said each offers an entirely new idea—would apply to both federal and state elections.

But there would be these limitations on referees:

They would follow only state law and state regulations—these would not be changed. Their decisions would be subject to court review. They would serve only in some 200 counties, mainly in five Southern states, in which less than 15 per cent of any racial group is registered to vote. Officials described the bid for interim referees as important because in terms of time Negroes might be able to register and vote immediately rather than in two or three years.

Kennedy had two other requests, applicable only in federal elections.

One was for a specific ban on the application of different tests and standards to different people. The other was for a declaration that anyone with a sixth grade education is presumed to be literate.

Since a presumption could be challenged this latter proposal would be less stringent than a provision of a literacy test bill that fell by the wayside in the last Congress. Last year's measure would have made it a rule of federal law that anyone who passed the sixth grade was literate for voting purposes.

While he was at it, Kennedy urged every remaining state legislature to join the 13 which have ratified the proposed 24th Amendment to the Constitution which would outlaw the payment of poll taxes as a requirement for voting.

Kennedy had no legislation to

Middletown Woman Convicted in Slaying

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Loretta Page, 23, continued free under $5,000 bond today while her attorney prepared to file for a new trial. A Butler County Common Pleas court convicted Mrs. Page of first-degree manslaughter Wednesday night.

She was tried on a charge of second-degree murder as the result of the fatal shooting of her estranged husband, Leon, 22, on Jan. 12 at her Middletown apartment. The trial before Judge Fred Cramer began Monday.

Ohio Solon Opposes Probe Panel Budget

WASHINGTON, Ohio (AP)—Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, was among 20 Democrats who voted Wednesday against approval of a $360,000 budget for the House Committee on Un-American Activities for the next 12 months. The budget was approved 385-20 after a group of Democrats attempted for the second time in a week to trim the powers of the committee.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dismay and disarray.

Those two words paint a word which all in a few weeks changed from cheery to bleary. What looked nice turned to ice. Peace became as slippery as grease.

Talk—big, hot, critical nagging, and some of it just bombast—compounded the human predicament which for a short time, as it turned out, had seemed as quiet as a lily pad on a mill pond in the evening.

It was only a few weeks ago—after Premier Khrushchev had meekly pocketed his Cuban missiles and shut his lip—that even President Kennedy was moved to think things might be getting better.

Then French President de Gaulle threw a match in the gasoline can.

To show he looked upon the British almost as intruders in Europe, he called them "Anglo-Saxons" and blackballed membership for them in the exclusive international club called the Common Market.

And, if this wasn't enough to upset the alliance, he snubbed the United States by turning down Kennedy's still vague plan for some kind of NATO pool of nuclear weapons.

The British promptly criticized him. So did the United States. And, as if things weren't fouled up enough, the United States criticized Canada, which had been minding its own business, for not using U.S. nuclear weapons.

The Canadians criticized back. And in England, meanwhile, Prime Minister Macmillan was being criticized for accepting Kennedy's offer of Polaris missiles instead of Skybolt missiles which Americans now said weren't as good.

Dismay swept Congress when it began to realize Khrushchev was playing with a marked deck. He had pulled his missiles out of Cuba but not thousands of Soviet troops. So it turned out, he wasn't being so meek after all.

Republicans in Congress criticized Kennedy's foreign policy. Democrats in Congress criticized Republicans for criticizing Kennedy which, they said, was certainly contrary to bipartisan foreign policy as they understood it.

The Red Chinese had been nagging their Russian friends for talking peaceful coexistence and the Russians nagged them for being reactionaries for not wanting it.

Western eyes got big with a luminous look: They envisioned a kind of Communist earthquake which would split apart the Communist world. The eyes clouded, however, when Khrushchev fell all over the Chinese ambassador at a party.

The Chinese, who could recognize soft soap when they smelled it, nagged harder than ever. And two days later, with almost strident criticism, they showed they were not mollified at all.

Right at this point Khrushchev announced Russia would defend Red China from attack. This must have astonished the Chinese since nobody had been attacking them or even talking of it. It probably didn't change them.

Meanwhile Khrushchev had set the Americans to biting at one another by suddenly promising to remove some of his troops in Cuba but not all. He didn't have to be a magician to figure what came next.

Demands in this country that Kennedy get the Russians out of Cuba although how he could do it without getting into war with Russia is something no one has explained yet.

While all this got the kettle boiling like in the olden days of a few months ago, two planes, which the United States said had come from Cuba, attacked a shrimp boat between this country and Cuba. Fidel Castro denied the charge.

The boat was unmarked and uninjured and the two-man crew was uninjured. But some members of Congress called for "hot pursuit" the next time it happened although they didn't know how or why it happened the first time.

Americans were still nursing their feelings over this escapade when Soviet Defense Minister Rodion Malinovsky—although why he butted in isn't clear—announced an American attack on Cuba meant war with Russia.

And Wednesday Khrushchev denounced American "wild men" for talking about invading Cuba and practically promised to eat the "big sharks" of American "imperialism."

So things are back to normal and everybody can relax for half a second.

Middletown Woman Convicted in Slaying

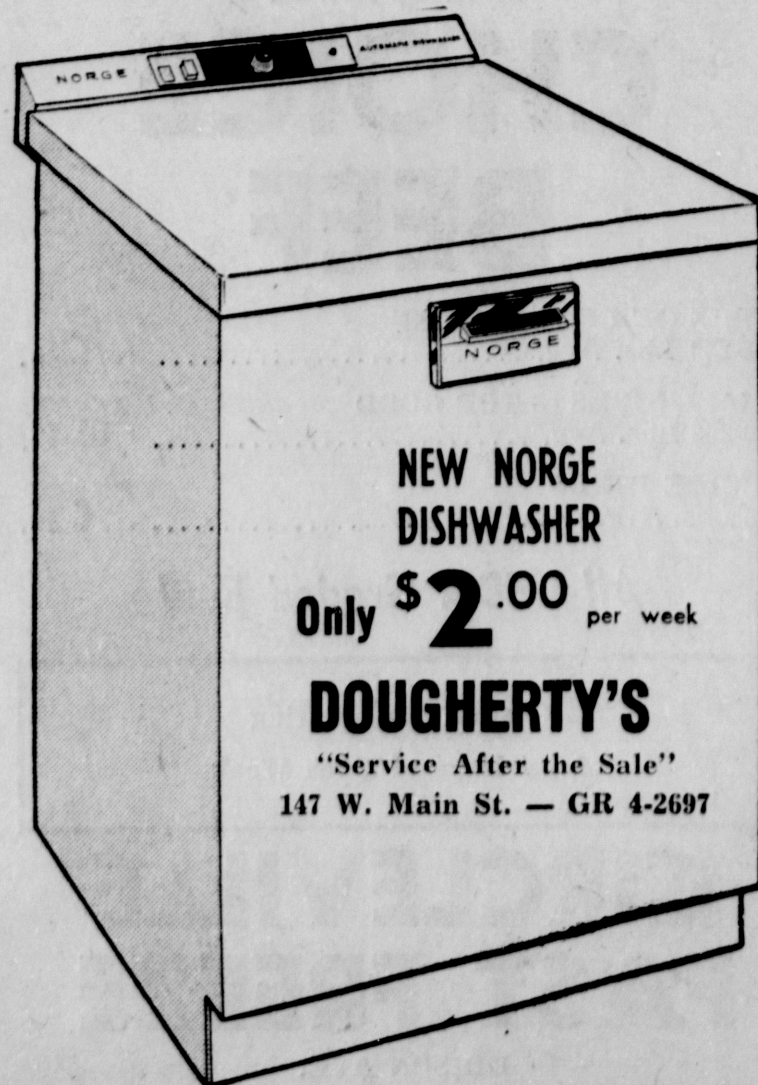

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Loretta Page, 23, continued free under $5,000 bond today while her attorney prepared to file for a new trial. A Butler County Common Pleas court convicted Mrs. Page of first-degree manslaughter Wednesday night.

She was tried on a charge of second-degree murder as the result of the fatal shooting of her estranged husband, Leon, 22, on Jan. 12 at her Middletown apartment. The trial before Judge Fred Cramer began Monday.

Ohio Solon Opposes Probe Panel Budget

WASHINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, was among 20 Democrats who voted Wednesday against approval of a $360,000 budget for the House Committee on Un-American Activities for the next 12 months. The budget was approved 385-20 after a group of Democrats attempted for the second time in a week to trim the powers of the committee.

Westfall, Teays Valley Win Faculty Tournament Games

Teays Valley and Westfall teachers will battle tonight for the championship crown in the third annual March of Dimes Faculty Tournament at Circleville High School.

The TV tutors earned a shot at their third consecutive title last night, defeating Logan Elm 76-59. Westfall edged Circleville, 47-46, to gain the finals.

Bill Salisbury headed the high scoring instructors from Teays Valley with a 21-point effort. Three others finished in double figures with Benis Lutz sinking 16 markers, Russ Gregg 13 and Charlie Baxter 12.

For Logan Elm, Roger Clark scored 22 points and Charlie Hardin notched 12. The LE unit could not get enough teachers to fill a team and had to rely on alumni of the district for players. Keith Merrin and Jerry Leist represented the faculty.

IN THE Westfall-Circleville contest Paul Hoskins and Ned Reichelderfer teamed up to pace the winners with a total 39 points. Paul Sarchet tallied 12 for the losers and Don Neff and Paul Reiss scored 10 each. Circleville and Logan Elm meet in the consolation tilt at 7 p. m. today. The championship game is slated to start at 8:30.

The Pickaway County Basketball Officials Assn. provided referees for the games. Dave Crawford is the tournament manager.

A sparse crowd of approximately 250 persons viewed the annual event.

Mantle, Maris Are Signed For $100,000 and $72,000

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—They win more than any one else, but otherwise the New York Yankees aren't apt to cause much of a radical stir in major league baseball.

They shook off the cloak of conservatism Wednesday, however, when they:

1. Signed slugger Mickey Mantle for $100,000.

2. Displayed the contract for all to see.

3. And then added slugger Roger Maris for $72,000 virtually before the ink was dry on Mantle's contract.

Thus, the world champions shattered precedent not only by signing their two highest-priced performers at the same stroke but also by showing off the salary figure on a player's contract—normally a top secret item.

Why the Yankees exhibited Mantle's signed contract to newsmen was not explained, but probably because the document puts the Oklahoman in a small circle of baseball's 100-grandiers. Willy Mays signed for that amount last week with the San Francisco Giants, and Stan Musial, Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio have been the only others in the club. Mantle, 31, has been an ailment-prone athlete in his 12 seasons with the Yankees but has established himself as a star of the first magnitude nevertheless. Last year, for example, the switch-hitting better missed 39 games altogether and was limited to part-time duty in several others, mostly because of leg injuries.

But he paced the Yanks to the American League pennant, wound up with a .321 batting average and 30 home runs, and was voted the Most Valuable Player award for the third time. His exploits earned him a raise of some $15,000.

Despite his history of physical setbacks and his relatively advanced athletic age, Mantle said Thursday that he hoped to "play five more seasons at top clip, maybe more."

Maris, the 61-homer man of 1961, was expected to take a rather hefty cut in pay after last season's considerably less spectacular showing — but he'll get the same $72,000. He hit 33 homers in '62, and batted .256.

Wittenberg Continues To Rank as No. 1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wittenberg continues to hold the top spot in the Associated Press small college basketball rankings, which underwent little change after last week's action.

The Tigers of Ohio received five first place votes from among the AP's nationwide eight-man panel of sports writers. With 10 points for a first, 9 for a second and so on, Wittenberg collected 69 points to 62 for Grambling and 60 for Southeast Missouri. The Tigers currently have a 20-1 record and are in the Ohio Conference Tournament.

Grambling eased up one place to second, while Southeast Missouri slipped to third and Evansville kept fourth. The top four were the only teams picked on all ballots of the total of 23 mentioned.

The Top Ten with first place votes in parentheses, records and points:

Williamsport Duo Top County Scoring Race

Fenstermaker, Pond Finish 1-2; Darby's Brown Has Top Average

Rick Fenstermaker and Rick Pond, both Williamsport High School basketball players, finished one-two in the scoring race among Pickaway County basketballers.

Fenstermaker completed the season with a total of 373 points in 20 games for an average of 18.6. Pond sealed the nets for 370 points during the season, to finish just one tenth of a point of his teammate's average.

The two trailed Darby's ace pivot man Charlie Brown during most of the latter stages of the cage season, but Brown missed the final game of the year, finishing with a total of 351 points.

The high scoring Trojan played in 18 games and racked up points at just a shade better than 20 markers per outing.

THE ONLY other county cager to finish with 300 or more points was Jackson Twp.'s southpaw guard, Ed Martindale, who racked up an even 300 in 17 games.

Mickey Hunt of Monroe grabbed fifth place in the scoring with a total of 262 points in 17 games. Logan Elm placed Robert Parker in sixth position with a 258-point effort during a 16-game season.

Still another Williamsport cager is in seventh place as Bruce Willis finished the season with 223 points.

Sonny Roof of Teays Valley has 204 points and Danny Bowen, another Darby product, finished with 201 points to round out the county cagers finishing above the 200 mark.

In tenth place is Danny Hicks of Logan Elm with 197 markers. Danny Hollenback has 196 and Larry Beard 192 for a complete list of the top 12 players in the county.

THE LIST of the top 12 is compiled from unofficial scoring records kept by The Herald. It does not include tournament games.

A tilt between the Teays Valley Vikings and the Alumni of the school district was included in the records.

Idle Celtics Are Helped in Bonus Battle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
In a pair of no-contest races, the Boston Celtics and Los Angeles Lakers have all but mathematically clinched divisional first places in the National Basketball Association.

But these two flaming rivals still have some unfinished business—to battle it out for the honor, and the spot of cash, that go to the club with the highest regular season winning percentage. In addition to the satisfaction of being No. 1 in the averages the top club also receives a $2,000 bonus.

Boston got a lift toward the prize Wednesday night, even though idle, with an assist from the Syracuse Nats. They whipped the Lakers 122-111, leaving the Western Division leaders in a virtual tie with the Celtics in won-lost percentages. Los Angeles is 50-20 for .714 with 10 games to go, Boston is 51-21 for .708 with eight games left.

In other NBA games, the Chicago Zephyrs put on a final scoring furry and beat the St. Louis Hawks 98-93, and the Cincinnati Royals rolled over the New York Knickerbockers 119-107.

Tiger Basketeers Set for Initial Game in Tourney

Circleville High School's basketball Tigers meet Pleasant View in their first game of the Class AA Central District tournament at 7 p. m. Saturday.

The game will be played in the Grandview High School gymnasium just north of W. Third Ave. in Columbus.

The tournament is being played at three locations this year. However there will be only one winner go on to the regionals.

Beginning next week, all games will be played at the Ohio State Fairgrounds Coliseum. The other tournament site is at Upper Arlington High School.

THE TIGERS drew a bye in the first round of play, gaining a week of rest after the season finale with Wilmington.

In previous meetings between Circleville and Pleasant View, South Central Ohio League rivals, the Panthers have emerged with two wins.

At Pleasant View the Franklin County School had little difficulty in posting a 62-49 verdict.

However in the return match at Circleville, the Tigers pulled ahead in the final quarter after trailing most of the game only to see the Panthers knot the score just before the regulation 32 minutes expired. In the ensuing overtime the Panthers outscored the locals to gain a 58-54 win.

Pleasant View plays a deliberate offensive type of basketball, trying to set up set shot artist Lafe Romine with the good attempts. All five members of the starting unit are capable of scoring well if given a chance.

The Tigers will be hoping for a "third time charm" when they meet their twice victorious opponents Saturday.

IN THE tough 47-team class AA Central District there is no "good draw" according to most of the coaches who compete in it. Only one survivor goes to the regional tournament.

The champion team, if it drew a game in the first round, must win seven games. However, Tiger mentor Paul Reiss has expressed satisfaction in getting a third shot at Pleasant View.

Should the Tigers defeat Pleasant View, their next opponent will be the winner of the St. Charles-Linden McKinley tilt which is scheduled immediately following the Tiger-Panther encounter.

Linden was the top seeded team in the Circleville bracket of the event.

All the Circleville cagers are reported in good shape for the tournament tilt.

Tom Smith, who sat out the last two contests of the season with a severely sprained ankle has been practicing this week and should be ready to go by Saturday.

OSU Frosh Basketball Coach Calls Rathburn Top Prospect

Tom Rathburn, a former Ashville High School basketball star, will help Ohio State's varsity next year, according to Freshman Coach Frank Truitt.

"Tom is a good shot and will be a threat to score any time", Truitt says. "He is learning to play the back court and will improve with experience. He is getting better on defense, too".

Truitt lists Rathburn along with Marvin Gregory of Wilmington, Dick Renick of London, Carl Whitaker, also of London, Bob Dove of Canfield, Al Peters of New Lebanon and Anatol Ahijevych of Sugar Creek as the leading contenders for varsity berths next year.

The Buckeyes lose forward Doug McDonald and guard Dick Reasbeck and possibly forward Jim Doughty from this year's team.

TRUITT says Peters, like Rathburn, is aggressive. Dove is a left-handed shot. Gregory, according to Truitt, will add back-court defensive strength with his speed and quickness.

Ahijevych will add rebounding strength and should help Ohio improve its defense, according to Truitt.

Saturday is the last home game for Ohio State and will mark the final appearance of the current freshman squad in St. John arena.

Cleveland Swaps Essegian for Hurler

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Outfielder Chuck Essegian, one of three unsigned players on the Cleveland Indians' roster, has been traded to the Kansas City Athletics for pitcher Jerry Walker, a 24-year-old right-hander.

A Tribe spokesman, announcing the deal Wednesday night, said it is effective as of Saturday afternoon upon the expiration of waivers which had been asked by the Indians on Essegian.

General Manager Gabe Paul has said that outfielders Tito Francona and Willie Tasby, the Indians' other unsigned players, will report to the club's spring training camp here before the end of the week to confer with him about their contracts.

NCAA Regional Sites Announced

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The sites of three more regional basketball tournaments March 8-9 were announced today by the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The 32-team small college field will be completed this weekend, and pairings will be announced Tuesday.

Additional tournament sites are at Washington University of St. Louis for the Great Lakes Regional; at Fresno, Calif. State for the Southwest regional.

Twenty regional tournament berths have been determined with the acceptance of nine new teams this week. National finals will be held at Evansville, Ind. March 13-15.

OSU Frosh Basketball Coach Calls Rathburn Top Prospect

Tom Rathburn, a former Ashville High School basketball star, will help Ohio State's varsity next year, according to Freshman Coach Frank Truitt.

"Tom is a good shot and will be a threat to score any time", Truitt says. "He is learning to play the back court and will improve with experience. He is getting better on defense, too".

Truitt lists Rathburn along with Marvin Gregory of Wilmington, Dick Renick of London, Carl Whitaker, also of London, Bob Dove of Canfield, Al Peters of New Lebanon and Anatol Ahijevych of Sugar Creek as the leading contenders for varsity berths next year.

The Buckeyes lose forward Doug McDonald and guard Dick Reasbeck and possibly forward Jim Doughty from this year's team.

TRUITT says Peters, like Rathburn, is aggressive. Dove is a left-handed shot. Gregory, according to Truitt, will add back-court defensive strength with his speed and quickness.

Ahijevych will add rebounding strength and should help Ohio improve its defense, according to Truitt.

Saturday is the last home game for Ohio State and will mark the final appearance of the current freshman squad in St. John arena.

Cleveland Swaps Essegian for Hurler

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Outfielder Chuck Essegian, one of three unsigned players on the Cleveland Indians' roster, has been traded to the Kansas City Athletics for pitcher Jerry Walker, a 24-year-old right-hander.

A Tribe spokesman, announcing the deal Wednesday night, said it is effective as of Saturday afternoon upon the expiration of waivers which had been asked by the Indians on Essegian.

General Manager Gabe Paul has said that outfielders Tito Francona and Willie Tasby, the Indians' other unsigned players, will report to the club's spring training camp here before the end of the week to confer with him about their contracts.

Mantle, Maris Are Signed For $100,000 and $72,000

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—They win more than any one else, but otherwise the New York Yankees aren't apt to cause much of a radical stir in major league baseball.

They shook off the cloak of conservatism Wednesday, however, when they:

1. Signed slugger Mickey Mantle for $100,000.
2. Displayed the contract for all to see.
3. And then added slugger Roger Maris for $72,000 virtually before the ink was dry on Mantle's contract.

Thus, the world champions shattered precedent not only by signing their two highest-priced performers at the same stroke but also by showing off the salary figure on a player's contract—normally a top secret item.

Why the Yankees exhibited Mantle's signed contract to newsmen was not explained, but probably because the document puts the Oklahoman in a small circle of baseball's 100-grandiers. Willy Mays signed for that amount last week with the San Francisco Giants, and Stan Musial, Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio have been the only others in the club.

Mantle, 31, has been an ailment-prone athlete in his 12 seasons with the Yankees but has established himself as a star of the first magnitude nevertheless. Last year, for example, the switch-hitting belter missed 39 games altogether and was limited to part-time duty in several others, mostly because of leg injuries.

But he paced the Yanks to the American League pennant, wound up with a .321 batting average and 30 home runs, and was voted the Most Valuable Player award for the third time. His exploits earned him a raise of some $15,000.

Despite his history of physical setbacks and his relatively advanced athletic age, Mantle said Thursday that he hoped to "play five more seasons at top clip, maybe more."

Maris, the 61-homer man of 1961, was expected to take a rather hefty cut in pay after last season's considerably less spectacular showing — but he'll get the same $72,000. He hit 33 homers in '62, and batted .256.

Wittenberg Continues To Rank as No. 1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wittenberg continues to hold the top spot in the Associated Press small college basketball rankings, which underwent little change after last week's action.

The Tigers of Ohio received five first place votes from among the AP's nationwide eight-man panel of sports writers. With 10 points for a first, 9 for a second and so on, Wittenberg collected 69 points to 62 for Grambling and 60 for Southeast Missouri. The Tigers currently have a 20-1 record and are in the Ohio Conference Tournament.

Grambling eased up one place to second, while Southeast Missouri slipped to third and Evansville kept fourth. The top four were the only teams picked on all ballots of the total of 23 mentioned.

The Top Ten with first place votes in parentheses, records and points:

Wittenberg (5)	20	1	69
Grambling (1)	26	2	62
Southeast Missouri	20	2	60
Evansville (1)	19	5	44
Augsburg	23	2	35
Akron	21	2	26
South Dakota State	16	5	19
Weber	21	2	17
Southern Illinois	17	8	16
Tennessee State	23	3	15

John Lucas produced an unbeaten Penn State Cross Country team in his first campaign as head coach last fall.

Robby Says Reds To Be 'Real Good'

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Frank Robinson, who feels the Cincinnati Reds "are going to be real good" this year, hopes he won't hold up his teammates the first few weeks.

Asked if he had set himself any goals for 1963, the star rightfielder said:

"Yes, get off to a good start for a change."

"Last year we started poorly. That was especially true of myself. I batted only .181 during the month of April. And that hurt."

Later in the season, Robinson almost won the National League batting crown and finished with a .342 average, second only to the Dodgers' Tommy Davis.

ning it has remained essentially the same—archaic, rusty, sluggish no. tuned to the times.

The U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, which governs the sport in this country, is rent by dissension—the East battling the West—and its operations are choked by oversize and ineffective committees. The Davis Cup program lacks purpose. The entire organization is in need of young, vigorous leadership.

One of the reasons our Davis Cup teams don't fare better is that they are the victims of inept committees which make decisions for which they have no qualifications. One committee selects the team, another picks the captain. The latter job usually is a political plum.

Tennis is losing the battle for the spectator dollar because it refuses to consider open competition—that is, tournaments in which professionals may play against amateurs. The latest decision of the USLTA is not to even discuss the open matter—a blind, foolish act on the face of it.

These are steps which I think should be taken to help the game:

1. Appointment of a strong, well-paid executive director: who would have virtual commissioner's powers. The committees would be reduced to policy-making functions.
2. Establishment of a public relations office under the direction of the USLTA director.
3. Replacement of the old guard on the committees with young, bright men of tennis experience such as Vic Seixas, Ham Richardson, Tom Brown and Dick Savitt.
4. Adoption of open competition. The professionals, both touring and teaching variety, should be accepted as part of the game.
5. Change of the Davis Cup from strictly amateur to open competition to make it truly representative of world tennis supremacy.
6. Continuation of the youth development program without misplacing emphasis. Our primary goal should be to recapture our place as the No. 1 tennis nation in the world.

Fifteen professionals on the PGA tour made a hole-in-one during 1962 but only two double eagles were registered on tour.

Elk Herd Causes Federal Problem

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP)—Possibly no population explosion anywhere has stirred such concentrated controversy as that which has been occurring in a remote valley in the extreme northwest corner of Wyoming.

There, in a section of Yellowstone National Park, range the 5,000 animals in the northern Yellowstone elk herd—unaware of the problems they are creating for themselves, other wildlife and humans hundreds of miles away.

For 30 years the increasing elk herd has been a source of irritation to the National Park Service, states surrounding the wilderness park and thousands of sportsmen.

The dispute is over how to control the size of the herd and keep it in line with what the park service thinks is desirable for the animals' wellbeing, the preservation of natural forage and the enjoyment of tourists who swarm through the park.

The issue reached a bitter climax last winter when 5,000 elk were slaughtered in their winter feeding grounds. New outcries followed an announcement that this winter's required reduction of 1,900 head had been completed. The reduction included shooting of 400 elk by park rangers.

Now, the air has been allowed to clear somewhat and observers feel a solution is closer than at any time in the past three years when the heavy reduction program began.

But as Wyoming Gov. Cliff Hansen says, much still needs to be done before there is "really any understanding between the National Park Service which runs the

Elk Herd Causes Federal Problem

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP)—Possibly no population explosion anywhere has stirred such concentrated controversy as that which has been occurring in a remote valley in the extreme northwest corner of Wyoming.

There, in a section of Yellowstone National Park, range the 5,000 animals in the northern Yellowstone elk herd—unaware of the problems they are creating for themselves, other wildlife and humans hundreds of miles away.

For 30 years the increasing elk herd has been a source of irritation to the National Park Service, states surrounding the wilderness park and thousands of sportsmen.

The dispute is over how to control the size of the herd and keep it in line with what the park service thinks is desirable for the animals' wellbeing, the preservation of natural forage and the enjoyment of tourists who swarm through the park.

The issue reached a bitter climax last winter when 5,000 elk were slaughtered in their winter feeding grounds. New outcries followed an announcement that this winter's required reduction of 1,800 head had been completed. The reduction included shooting of 400 elk by park rangers.

Now, the air has been allowed to clear somewhat and observers feel a solution is closer than at any time in the past three years when the heavy reduction program began.

But as Wyoming Gov. Cliff Hansen says, much still needs to be done before there is really any understanding between the National Park Service which runs the park, and the surrounding states and various sportsmen's groups. Montana Gov. Tim Babcock said he hopes this winter marks the end of elk shooting inside Yellowstone.

The elk range both in and outside the park in small bands during good weather, usually high in the mountains and rarely within sight of any human eyes.

But in winter, the elk are driven to lower elevations by the snows and gather on 125,000 acres in the Lamar River Valley in northwestern Yellowstone park to wait for spring. There the problem begins. The elk are voracious eaters. Whitetail deer and beaver are almost extinct in the park because the elk destroy their feed.

Finally, an agreement was reached whereby a migration study could be started so that more could be learned of elk movements and perhaps increase the kill by hunters outside the park.

There also was agreement on a stepped-up trapping and transplanting program. Wyoming said it would take all the elk it could get.

'LIFTING BODY,' IT'S CALLED—From Moffett Field, Calif., comes this sketch of the manned, wingless space vehicle M-2 "lifting body," depicted in a probable mission as it leaves the vicinity of the Earth to rendezvous with a space station. It was conceived and proved feasible by scientists at NASA's Ames Research Center. The "lifting body" is intended to attain aerodynamic stability and lift from a body alone, eliminating need for wings, and can be landed like a conventional airplane.

Pickaway Grange Report

STAR

Star Grange met in regular session in the Monroe School auditorium Tuesday evening with Worthy Master, Carroll Reid presiding.

The charter was draped for our deceased member, Carl Dudson. The secretary, Helen Schleich read a thank you note from Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dennis for the Testament presented their new son, Robert Taylor, also a thank you card from Mrs. Bertha Porter for cards received while she was confined to her home with broken arms. A card of appreciation was read from the Dudson family and it was announced that Sabin Sunday will be Sunday, March 10th at the Monroe School and those who helped before were asked to help again this time.

A contribution was made to the Heart Fund and the group voted to serve the basketball banquet as their money making project this spring.

Mrs. Francis Furniss, home economics chairman thanked those who helped serve the dinner last Tuesday evening at the 4-H Grange building and urged the ladies to start their cross stitch skirts for the sewing contest. Mr. and Mrs. John F. Dowler were present for the meeting. Mrs. Dowler visited with the juveniles and Mr. Dowler gave a few well chosen remarks.

Harold Furniss, lecturer, opened the program with a poem "The Washington Monument" and then conducted a round table discussion on current legislature and taxes. The chairman, Mrs. Francis Furniss gave the thought for the day and refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Grabill, Mr. and Mrs. James Grabill, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Rivers and Charles Rivers.

SCIOTO VALLEY

Worthy Master H. A. Bumgarner presided at the meeting Tuesday night of Scioto Valley Grange.

The grange received a donation of $25 from the Ashville Grain Company.

After the business meeting, Mrs. Kenneth Rinehart as guests at Grange gave a report of the Ohio State Grange Convention held October 21-24 at Dayton. She was a delegate to the convention. We were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rinehart were guests at the meeting.

Lecturer, Gladys Vause, presented the following program: "Washington's Inauguration Prayer"; song — "America," by the grange, dialogue, "Puppy Love," Mr. and Mrs. Harry Speakman. The guest speaker was Mrs. George McDowell who gave an original thesis entitled "Abraham Lincoln Up to the Time of Being President of the United States".

The hospitality committee with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Duvall as chairman assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Sprang, Herbert Vick and Mrs. Katherine Baumgartner served a delicious lunch at the tables appropriately decorated for the month of February.

Purina Joins For Operation With Spanish

The Ralston Purina Co. has joined with an existing company in Spain to form a feed manufacturing firm known as Gallina Blanca Purina, S. A., it has been announced by Raymond E. Rowland, president of Ralston Purina who once headed the plant in Circleville.

The main office of the organization will be in Barcelona. The company will manufacture and distribute Purina Chows for livestock and poultry in Spain and Portugal. It will also process poultry, market poultry products and distribute Purina farm sanitation products in the two countries.

The Spanish company with whom Purina joined to form the equally-owned partnership is operating as an integrated grocery company with special emphasis on poultry products. Its corporate name is Gallina Blanca-Industrias Alimenticias.

A chow mill will be built immediately in the Barcelona area with the expectation that a second chow mill will be built later in the Madrid area. Products will be sold under Purina trademarks.

The new organization will be a part of Ralston Purina's International Division. R. Hal Dean, Purina executive vice president who is another former Circleville employee, is president of the International Division. This is the company's first venture in Spain.

The Company has partnership operations in Italy, France and Germany, and has manufacturing and distributing facilities in Mexico, Central and South America, and Australia.

The Cheerio Class of Derby will not hold its regular meeting for the month of March due to Lenten Services at the church here.

PFC Larry McPherson arrived home unexpectedly from Ft. Meade, Md., to spend the weekend with his family here.

Family Worship Sunday will be Mar. 3 at Derby Church. As many families as possible are urged to attend the worship. There will be a Communion Service.

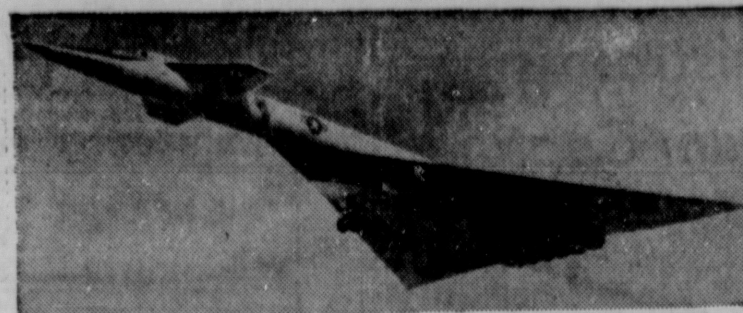

The gift booklet 'Gospel of Mark' will be available during March.

Ohio Northern U To Graduate 19

Nineteen seniors at Ohio Northern University, Ada, completed their graduation requirements at the close of the winter quarter this week and will participate in June commencement exercises.

Included in the list of seniors is Roger Dale Wolfe, 358 E. Mound St. He will receive his BS degree in education with a major in social studies.

'DANGEROUS' SHIFT?—Here are the military principals in a defense tug-of-war taking place in Washington, where some lawmakers feel a "dangerous" all-our-eggs-in-one-basket shift is being made in strategy, to eliminate the intercontinental triple-sonic RS70 in favor of missiles. Meanwhile, the intercontinental B52 is our mainstay. House Armed Services Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., favors the RS70 program as "insurance," and his committee voted $363 million more than President Kennedy asked. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara believes it would cost $10 billion to build an RS70 fleet, and that the missile buildup makes such an expenditure needless. When Washington speaks of targets, Washington means Soviet targets, of course.

'LIFTING BODY,' IT'S CALLED—From Moffett Field, Calif., comes this sketch of the manned, wingless space vehicle M-2 "lifting body," depicted in a probable mission as it leaves the vicinity of the Earth to rendezvous with a space station. It was conceived and proved feasible by scientists at NASA's Ames Research Center. The "lifting body" is intended to attain aerodynamic stability and lift from a body alone, eliminating need for wings, and can be landed like a conventional airplane.

Pickaway Grange Report

STAR

Star Grange met in regular session in the Monroe School auditorium Tuesday evening with Worthly Master, Carroll Reid presiding.

The charter was draped for our deceased member, Carl Dudson. The secretary, Helen Schleich read a thank you note from Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dennis for the Testament presented their new son, Robert Taylor, also a thank you card from Mrs. Bertha Porter for cards received while she was confined to her home with broken arms. A card of appreciation was read from the Dudson family and it was announced that Sabin Sunday will be Sunday, March 10th at the Monroe School and those who helped before were asked to help again this time.

A contribution was made to the Heart Fund and the group voted to serve the basketball banquet as their money making project this spring.

Mrs. Francis Furniss, home economics chairman thanked those who helped serve the dinner last Tuesday evening at the 4-H Grange building and urged the ladies to start their cross stitch skirts for the sewing contest. Mr. and Mrs. John F. Dowler were present for the meeting. Mrs. Dowler visited with the juveniles and Mr. Dowler gave a few well chosen remarks.

Harold Furniss, lecturer, opened the program with a poem "The Washington Monument" and then conducted a round table discussion on current legislature and taxes. The chaplain, Mrs. Francis Furniss gave the thought for the day and refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Grabill, Mr. and Mrs. James Grabill, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Rivers and Charles Rivers.

SCIOTO VALLEY

Worthy Master H. A. Bumgarner presided at the meeting Tuesday night of Scioto Valley Grange. The grange received a donation of $25 from the Ashville Grain Company.

After the business meeting, Mrs. Kenneth Rinehart as guests at Grange gave a report of the Ohio State Grange Convention held October 21-24 at Dayton. She was a delegate to the convention. We were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rinehart were guests at the meeting.

Lecturer, Gladys Vause, presented the following program: "Washington's Inauguration Party"; song — "America," by the grange, dialogue, "Puppy Love," Mr. and Mrs. Harry Speakman. The guest speaker was Mrs. George McDowell who gave an original thesis entitled "Abraham Lincoln Up to the Time of Being President of the United States".

The hospitality committee with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Duvall as chairman assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Sprang, Herbert Vick and Mrs. Katherine Baumgartner served a delicious lunch at the tables appropriately decorated for the month of February.

Judge Eyes Motions in Fraud Action

GEORGETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Judge John H. Houston of Brown County Common Pleas Court is considering two motions filed in connection with a fraud suit against the American Dairy Producers Association.

Both were filed Wednesday by the association's president, Clarence Gallenstein of Rt. 1, Blanchester. One asked that the suit against ADPA be dismissed. The other asked Judge Houston to name two officers of the group as co-defendants.

The suit charging the association with fraud was filed last week by County Prosecutor Robert Liggett, who asked the court to dissolve it.

Liggett accused Gallenstein of organizing the association under "fraud, deceit, false premises and artifice." He also charged in his petition that Gallenstein is trying to operate without a board of directors.

Auto Strikes Tree, Driver Is Injured

Robert F. Meenach, 23, Laurelville, suffered abrasions of the leg and face when his car struck a tree at Court St. and Northridge Road at 12:28 a. m. today.

Meenach, headed south on Court St., said his auto skidded when he attempted to stop for a traffic light. The vehicle veered over a curb and struck a tree on the west side of the street.

Police Sgt. Roderick List said the right front end of the auto was demolished.

DeMolay To Install 1963 License Plates

The Circleville DeMolay operating near the Court House, will be putting license plates on cars Saturday from 8:30 a. m. until noon.

There will be no charge for installation of plates but donations will be accepted. DeMolay members will also install chrome brackets for price of the brackets.

The local unit plans to provide the service again on Mar. 9.

Purina Joins For Operation With Spanish

The Ralston Purina Co. has joined with an existing company in Spain to form a feed manufacturing firm known as Gallina Blanca Purina, S. A., it has been announced by Raymond E. Rowland, president of Ralston Purina who once headed the plant in Circleville.

The main office of the organization will be in Barcelona. The company will manufacture and distribute Purina Chows for livestock and poultry in Spain and Portugal. It will also process poultry, market poultry products and distribute Purina farm sanitation products in the two countries.

The Spanish company with whom Purina joined to form the equally-owned partnership is operating as an integrated grocery company with special emphasis on poultry products. Its corporate name is Gallina Blanca-Industrias Alimenticias.

A chow mill will be built immediately in the Barcelona area with the expectation that a second chow mill will be built later in the Madrid area. Products will be sold under Purina trademarks.

The new organization will be a part of Ralston Purina International Division. R. Hal Dean, Purina executive vice president who is another former Circleville employee, is president of the International Division. This is the company's first venture in Spain.

The Company has partnership operations in Italy, France and Germany, and has manufacturing and distributing facilities in Mexico, Central and South America, and Australia.
